12. Вы проводите информационный поиск в ходе выполнения проектной работы. Определите, в каком из текстов A–F содержатся ответы на интересующие Вас вопросы 1–7*. Один из вопросов останется без ответа. Занесите Ваши ответы в таблицу.*

1. What nature-friendly ideas started a new branch in the tourism business?
2. What means of transport is the most popular with tourists?
3. Why can tourism be dangerous to nature?
4. What are the reasons that make people go on a trip?
5. What kind of tourism is getting popular with elderly people?
6. Why does travelling make people smarter?
7. What are the ways to save money while travelling?

A. Tourism has become a popular activity. Indeed, nowadays people travel more, and further, than they used to. The main reasons for tourism are: recreation, leisure and business. When travelling for recreation, people want to escape their stressful daily routine and to relax. Beach holidays are an example of such tourism. Business trips involve going to a distant place in order to settle business issues.

B. Whether on a business trip or on a honeymoon, people want to explore the place they are in. They go on excursions, try new activities like diving or mountain climbing and learn about the historical background of the place and its cultural peculiarities. Sometimes they find out amazing facts about people and places and about themselves too! In fact, when people travel, they broaden their horizons.

C. A new branch of tourism is ecotourism. It involves visiting relatively untouched places in remote areas. Ecotourism is often misinterpreted as any form of tourism involving wildlife – but it's completely different from jungle tourism or safari. Eco-tourists are against disturbing the environment; even taking photos is not recommended. Take only memories and leave only footprints is a very popular slogan for them.

D. By educational tourism, most people mean different versions of Learn and Travel Programmes for students. But it's not only for the young and brave. Lots of training and educational programmes for adults are offered in different corners of the world. Retired people participate in these programmes too. They gladly enroll on overseas courses ranging from gardening and design to computer skills and programming.

E. If possible, consider means of transport other than the plane. Rapidly increasing numbers of flights have put the environment in danger. Planes pollute the air, which results in global warming. In fact, tourism is not harmless fun as many may think: new airports and tourist infrastructure, pollution and crowds of noisy tourists make wild animals migrate, which may decrease their population or even make them extinct.

F. With all its benefits, travelling is still a very expensive activity and may not fit every budget. To reduce the costs, avoid travelling in high season when flight tickets and hotels are overpriced. Remember that, along with expensive destinations, there are less prestigious but even more interesting places. When planning a trip, find out about low-cost airlines, discounts and special offers.

Запишите в таблицу выбранные цифры под соответствующими буквами.

The Owl

Joan Harrison was walking along the street. She was shy and always felt lonely and upset. Joan worked as a secretary in an office in the city centre. It was lunch time and she went out to get some air. She was looking absently at the shop-windows when she saw a brown wooden owl in one of them. Suddenly Joan stopped. Joan was totally indifferent to birds and she had never understood people who collected useless statues. But for some reason she could not take her eyes off the owl. The wooden owl drew Joan to itself.

Joan decided to buy the owl. She earned a little, just to pay for her room and food. She couldn't afford new clothes. Even a ticket to the cinema was a heavy expense for her. But this time Joan was sure that she had to buy the wooden owl.

Joan opened the door of the shop. She asked the shop assistant about the price of the wooden owl. It was fifty pounds. Joan understood that it was sheer madness to buy such an expensive wooden bird. But she did it without any hesitation.

The next morning she left her house in a very good mood. Now, having the owl at home, Joan made it a habit to say good-bye and touch the owl's head before leaving. Amazingly, after this simple gesture she was cheerful and energetic the whole day. One morning, when patting the owl on the head, Joan remembered her wish to join the evening pottery class at college. She had often thought about it but always changed her mind at the last moment. Now she decided to fulfill her wish.

At the pottery class Joan achieved considerable results. Her teacher said she had a unique style. Nobody knew that she worked hard at home. Under the owl's observation Joan experimented with forms and colours. Once she took part in the students' show at the college, and the Museum of Arts asked her to sell her works for two thousand pounds. The sum covered all her debts and she could afford to buy a new dress and shoes and even more.

The next step was the annual National Art Festival, at which a secretary, Joan Harrison, presented her personal exhibition. Her fame and income were growing. Joan left her office and became a potter. A year later she and the art director of the museum were happily married. They moved to a large country house and now Joan had her own pottery.

Joan took the lucky owl with her. It took its honorary place in the large living room. In her last years she often remembered the shop where she had bought the owl, her evening classes and her first steps in pottery. Joan was so proud of the owl that each piece of her pottery had a picture of the owl on it. Lots of famous artists and important people visited Joan and her husband, but Joan never gave her owl to anybody until her dying day.

People have always wanted to discover new things and new worlds. We have built spaceships to go to other planets and are planning to visit other galaxies one day. Meanwhile, we know very little about our own planet. The oceans, which cover 70 percent of the planet, are an unknown world to us. The Pacific Ocean is the largest one. The lowest point on the Earth is also there. It is called Challenger Deep and it was discovered in 1875. The Pacific Ocean stretches from the Arctic Ocean to the coast of Antarctica, but most of its water is in the warm tropics, which makes it warm. A lot of fish and animals live in the Pacific Ocean. The place is still waiting for researchers to discover its secrets for us.

1. Why do a lot of letters come to the Italian city on Valentine's Day?
2. Why is it important to see the right bird on Valentine's Day?
3. What message can be sent with the flowers?
4. Why do some people give St Valentine's presents to their pets?
5. What is a different way to celebrate February 14?
6. How did the holiday get its name?
7. Why did a traditional St Valentine's box of sweets have the form of a heart?

A. Chocolate is the most common present on St. Valentine's Day. The tradition goes back to the 1800s when doctors made patients eat chocolate to make them feel happier. This might also be the reason why in the 1860s, Richard Cadbury produced his heart-shaped box of chocolates exclusively for Valentine's Day.

B. St Valentine's Day is a perfect occasion to express your deepest feelings to the person you love. On Valentine's Day lovers, friends and family members exchange Valentine's Day gifts as symbols of love. However, statistics show that nearly 9 million people prefer celebrating Valentine's Day with their pets and give them presents. The reason is that most pet owners consider animals to be more grateful and loyal than humans.

C. Each rose sent on Valentine's Day has some meaning. For example, a red rose means love and respect and pink says, 'I am having sweet thoughts about you'. Also, it is believed that one rose stands for love at first sight, eleven flowers mean that the receiver is truly and deeply loved and a hundred and eight roses are recommended for marriage proposals.

D. Some superstitions about seeing birds on Valentine's Day are really funny. It was once believed that if a woman saw a flying robin, she would get married to a sailor. However, if she saw a sparrow, her future husband would be poor. If she saw a goldfinch, she would marry a millionaire. There is no answer to who she would marry if she saw a pigeon, as history does not say anything about pigeons.

E. Romeo and Juliet, the two characters from the play by William Shakespeare, are remembered all over the world as an emblem of romance. The young lovers lived in Verona, Italy. Every Valentine's Day, this city still receives about 1,000 letters addressed to Juliet. The fictional character is still alive for many people who believe in romantic and immortal love.

F. Started by a group of feminists, Quirkyalone Day is celebrated on February 14 as an alternative to Valentine's Day. The new holiday started in 2003 as a celebration of romance, freedom and individuality. It's a day to celebrate the things you enjoy doing alone. Ways to celebrate include: buying yourself a new dress, taking a long walk without your mobile phone, exploring a new part of town, trying a new recipe etc.

Cambridge University

Cambridge University is the second-oldest university in the English-speaking world (after the University of Oxford) and the seventh-oldest in the world.

The history of Cambridge University began in 1209 when several hundred students arrived in the little town of Cambridge after having walked 60 miles from Oxford. These students were all churchmen and had been studying in Oxford at that city's well-known schools. Life at Oxford was hard for there was constant trouble, even fighting, between the citizens of the town and the students. Then one day a student accidentally killed a man of the town. The Mayor arrested three other students who were innocent and they were put to death. In protest, many students left Oxford, some of them went to Cambridge. And so the new University began.

It was Cambridge University. Of course, there were no Colleges in those early days and student life was very different from what it is now. The students were of all ages and came from anywhere and everywhere. Life in College was strict. The students were forbidden to play games, to sing (except sacred music), to hunt or fish or even to dance. Books were very rare and all the lessons were in the Latin language which students were supposed to speak even among themselves.

In 1440 King Henry VI founded King's College, and other colleges followed.

Nowadays there are more than 30 different colleges, including five for women students and several mixed colleges, in the University. The number of students in colleges is different: from 30 to 400 or 500.

The training course lasts 4 years. The academic year is divided into 3 terms. The students study natural and technical sciences, law, history, languages, geography, medicine, economics, agriculture, music and many other subjects. After 3 years of study a student may proceed to a Bachelor's degree, and later to the degrees of Master and Doctor.

There are many ancient traditions that are still observed at Cambridge. For example, the students are required to wear gowns at lectures, in the University library, in the street in the evening, for dinners in the colleges and for official visits.

All the students must pay for their education – classes, examinations, books, laboratories, university hostel, the use of libraries. The cost is high. It depends on college and university speciality. Very few students get grants.

Many great men studied at Cambridge, for example, Bacon (the philosopher), Milton and Byron (the poets), Cromwell (the soldier), Newton (the outstanding physicist), Darwin (who is famous for his theory of evolution) and Kapitsa (the famous Russian physicist).

Without the energy from the Sun, the Earth would have no life at all. Nowadays everyone knows that the Sun is a star. Like all stars, the Sun is a great burning ball of gases. To us, it seems large and red. The other stars look white or light blue because they are much farther from us than the Sun. In the past, many people believed that the Earth was the centre of the universe. They thought that the Sun and the stars went round it. Only in 1543, a great Polish scientist published a book in which he tried to prove a different point of view. According to him, the Earth and the other planets moved round the Sun. Those people who supported the scientist were often imprisoned and even killed.

1. What is the capital of the Falkland Islands?
2. Where can you learn about the islands' history?
3. What is the emblem of the Falkland Islands?
4. What do the local people do for a living?
5. What energy resources are used on the islands?
6. What is the educational policy of the Falkland Islands?
7. What was the result of the conflict between Argentina and the UK?

A. About 250 miles off the coast of South America lie the Falkland Islands, a British overseas territory. About 3,000 people live on the islands. Like most isolated communities around the world, they are always pleased to welcome tourists. The people of the Falkland Islands mostly work in sheep farming and fishing.

B. Everything outside Stanley, known locally as Camp, is home to numerous farms and settlements spread across the islands. In fact,over three quarters of the population live in Stanley. Although one of the smallest capitals in the world, Stanley provides a variety of supermarkets, excellent restaurants and hotels, a swimming pool, gym and golf course.

C. Open whenever tour ships are in the port, the Falkland Islands Museum contains artifacts from everyday life, natural history samples and a fine collection relating to the islands' shipwrecks. Outdoor exhibition sites include the Reclus Hut, originally made in Stanley, then shipped to Antarctica and set up there in 1956. Forty years later the famous house was brought back.

D. There are only about 380 children of school age living on the islands. For them, there is a primary and a secondary school in Stanley and three small settlement schools on large farms. Other rural pupils are taught by 'travelling' teachers. Schooling is free and compulsory for children between five and sixteen years of age. The government pays for older students to attend colleges, usually in the UK.

E. The Falkland Islands government is taking advantage of cheap wind power. Since 1996, the government has been investing in the development of alternative sources of energy and can already enjoy the results. The Islands have experimented with other forms of energy, including hydro-electric and solar power. However, these forms cannot match the effectiveness of wind power yet.

F. The Falklands War was fought in 1982 between Argentina and the United Kingdom. It started with the Argentine invasion and occupation of the Falkland Islands and South Georgia. The war lasted 74 days and ended with an Argentine defeat. However, Argentina still has not fully given up its claim to the territory of the islands.

Eton

Within a ten minute walk of Windsor Castle, across a bridge over the River Thames, there's an old Gothic building. It is the legendary Eton College. It is one of England's largest independent schools and one of the highest in prestige. Members of the British royal family are traditionally educated here. It was one of the best schools when first founded and remains so now; it is still commonly known as one of the greatest schools among all the schools in the world.

Following the old tradition, Eton is a full boarding school, which means all students live and study at the school with their fellow students throughout the school year. Eton is also one of the four remaining boys' schools, so there's no opportunity for a girl to study there. Eton students traditionally come from England's wealthiest and most prestigious families, many of them aristocratic. Boys enter Eton at about 13 and continue to study there until they are ready to enter university.

The school was founded by Henry VI in the fifteenth century to provide free education for poor pupils who would then go on to get a higher education at King's College in Cambridge. That connection no longer exists today.

All students have a uniform of a black tailcoat and a waistcoat, a white collar and dark trousers. All students wear a white tie. This uniform is not for special occasions, it is worn at all times for all classes. If you visit Eton during term time, you will see students walking along the streets with books under their arms dressed in their uniforms.

At Eton, there are dozens of organisations known as 'societies', in many of which students come together to discuss a particular topic. The societies are traditionally governed by the boys themselves. Societies range from astronomy to Scottish dancing and stamp-collecting. Some of them are dedicated to music, some to arts, some to languages, and so on. Meetings are usually held after supper and often include a guest speaker. Among past guest speakers were composer Andrew Lloyd Webber, writer J. K. Rowling, designer Vivienne Westwood, and actor Ralph Fiennes.

One of the oldest and most influential Eton societies is called the Pop. Its members are like school head-boys or prefects who are given limited authority over other students. They are called Poppers and take an active part in many official events of the school year, including parents' evenings. While all students wear black waistcoats, members of the Pop are allowed to wear any waistcoat they please. Prince William, when he was a Popper, wore a waistcoat designed like the British national flag. The style immediately became popular.

Irrespective of this, the official colour of the college is the so-called 'Eton blue'. It's a light blue-green colour which has been used since the early 19th century. The main purpose was to identify Eton sportsmen in rowing races and on the cricket field.

Since 2007 high-speed trains have become a common type of transport in Europe. They make it possible to cut travel times by hours. The trains travel at 350 kilometres an hour, and this is not the limit! The only problem for the engineers is the loud noise the trains produce. People living in the areas the trains travel through suffer from the noise greatly. For the passengers, the situation is different. For their comfort, all the carriages are made sound-proof from the inside. Travelling on high-speed trains is comfortable and pleasant. In the future, a high-speed railroad network could cover most of Europe. For example, a trip from Paris to Rome could take only 3 hours!

1. Young people of which country are the fastest at texting?
2. Who made the first mobile call and why?
3. Are the rules of using phones in school always followed by students?
4. Which mobile phone has no other advantages but glamour?
5. Why can a mobile phone be dangerous for children?
6. What are the safety tips for using mobile phones?
7. How can a mobile phone message save your life?

A. The first call from a mobile phone was made in 1973. Motorola engineer Martin Cooper made the call from the pavement of Sixth Avenue in New York to show off to his competitor – engineer Joel Angel. He said, “I’m ringing you just to see if my call sounds good at your end.” With the first mobile phones, only voice calls were available and there was no texting facility.

B. Recently the most expensive phone in the world was presented. It is the iPhone 5 with a case made of 24 carat gold with 600 diamonds! The home button of the smartphone is made of a rare black diamond and the company logo is covered with small diamonds. The cost of this device is about $15 million. The technical characteristics of the iPhone 5 are no different from the regular models.

C. Mobile phones are permitted at school in the UK, but students are not allowed to use them in class. Teachers can take away phones if these rules are broken. School students can use their phones at breaktime and at lunchtime. However, some teachers in British schools complain that students don't always follow the rules and that lessons are disrupted by people texting, receiving calls, looking at social networking sites, watching videos and even making videos in class.

D. The mobile phone is a way to warn people about disasters. Some countries have worked out the following system: phone companies automatically notify their population in advance about emergencies and disasters. Such warnings are very efficient and free of charge. Japan and Finland were among the first countries that understood the necessity of this system.

E. Parents want their kids to be safe. Are children safer with a mobile phone or without? Many parents want their children to have a phone so that they can be in contact at any time or in any place. On the other hand, for lots of parents a phone is a source of possible danger. Parents worry that their child may meet the wrong kind of 'friends' on social networking sites or that they might receive cruel messages from school bullies.

F. The idea of sending short text messages originated in 1984. It was later brought to life by a group of engineers from different companies. Writing text messages became extremely popular in Asian countries, especially in Korea. Korean teenagers are certainly text message fans. They send over 200,000 text messages a year – that's more than sixty texts per day. This hobby must have made their fingers really fast.

Potatoes

The potato comes from the high and cool areas of the Andes of Peru. It began to be grown as food more than 7,000 years ago. When Europeans came to South America, they took the potato back to Europe.

In 1589, Sir Walter Raleigh, an English explorer and historian known for his expeditions to the Americas, first brought the potato to Ireland and planted the new vegetable there. In spite of the fact that the potatoes grew very well in the poor soil of Ireland, it took nearly 200 years for them to become a widely grown crop in Ireland and Great Britain. People didn't like its unusual appearance and originally bitter taste. Besides, the potato was not mentioned in the Bible and it was often associated with the devil.

According to legend, Sir Walter Raleigh presented potato plants to Queen Elizabeth I. A special royal potato dinner was made and the noble men were invited to taste the new American vegetable. But the royal cooks didn't know how to cook potatoes: they cut off and threw away the ugly-looking tubers and brought to the royal table a dish of boiled leaves (which are very poisonous). Most of the guests died after that royal dinner and potatoes were forbidden for many years.

Only two hundred years later farmers in Great Britain and Ireland began growing potatoes. Soon the rest of Europe started to follow Britain. The only country which did not accept potatoes was France. To overcome the negative attitude of the French people towards the new vegetable, King Louis XVI started to wear a potato flower as a decoration. He tried to make the people understand the benefit of potatoes as food. Even after the French king had given an order to his citizens to grow potatoes, they still were against the unfamiliar vegetable. The farmers refused to eat potatoes because of its unusual smell and taste. Then King Louis XVI decided to trick his people. In order to show the value of the potato, the king ordered to have it planted in a royal field and put guards to watch over the field. When the local farmers saw the guards at the royal field, they decided that the thing so carefully guarded must be valuable. One day, the guards were allowed to go off duty. The local farmers went into the field, dug out some potatoes and planted them in their fields. The king's plan was a success. From this small start, the habit of growing and eating potatoes spread all over the country.

As Europeans began to grow potatoes, they realized the advantages of the new vegetable. The potato harvest was enough to feed their own families and to sell some to the citizens of towns and cities. The new food stimulated the development of cities and industries. Besides, the health of the people improved as they included potatoes in their diets. Now the potato is grown and enjoyed everywhere.

Netball is played by over 20 million people in more than 70 countries of the world. It was invented in 1892 as women's basketball. However, netball is different from basketball in many ways. For example, the ball and the basket are smaller and the court is bigger. The players cannot run with the ball. They are not allowed to touch the players who they are playing with. Netball has seven players in each team (not five as in basketball). During the 20th century, the game became very popular in English-speaking countries. Traditionally, only girls and women played netball. Nowadays, netball is the number one women's sport in the world but boys and men are starting to play it too.

1. Which place in London keeps a message for future generations?
2. Which place in London is good to watch sports and buy related goods?
3. How long does it take to raise the famous bridge for a ship?
4. How does a fairytale character help real people of London?
5. Which London bridge got a nickname after its reconstruction?
6. What is the most visited tourist attraction in London?
7. What were the false buildings in London made for?

A. Tower Bridge, which is over a hundred years old, has become a symbol of London. It is the only bridge on the Thames that can be raised and lowered to allow ships to pass. Nowadays it takes only 90 seconds for the heavy drawbridges to be pulled up with electric motors. It is considered that watching the Tower Bridge opening brings good luck.

B. Waterloo Bridge is a foot traffic bridge crossing the River Thames in London. It was opened in 1817, on the second anniversary of the famous battle. A century later, in the early 1940s, the famous Bridge needed to be rebuilt. It was during World War II, and most men were away fighting. So the bridge was rebuilt mainly by women. The new Waterloo Bridge was opened in 1945 and got a second name, the ‘Ladies Bridge’.

C. Wembley Stadium is a football stadium located in Wembley Park, London. The stadium is home not only to football. It also hosts concerts, rugby games and American football games. There is Wembley Market not far from the stadium. Unlike many London street markets, this one is situated in an open space. A visit here is a good option for football fans to find club T-shirts, boots or accessories.

D. 23 and 24 Leinster Gardens in Paddington (just opposite Hyde Park) are fake houses built to hide the Tube line running underneath. The windows are painted on, there are no letter boxes, and behind the facade there is a railway. The first London underground trains were steam trains so they needed ventilation. Underground lines were planned with tunnels and open-air sections so the trains could let out their steam and smoke, and that is what the house facades are hiding.

E. Great Ormond Street Hospital, which is situated at Russell Square, London, owns the copyright to Peter Pan, a story written by J.M. Barrie. The author had no children himself and gifted the rights to his famous literary pieces to the hospital in 1929. The hospital receives royalties from all films, cartoons and performances of Peter Pan. All the money is used to run the hospital.

F. Cleopatra’s Needle was brought to London in 1819 from Alexandria, the royal city of Cleopatra. Underneath Cleopatra’s Needle there’s a time capsule from 1778. It keeps information about 18th century life. It contains copies of the Bible in several languages, a portrait of Queen Victoria, a set of British coins, cigars, a razor, a map of London, copies of 10 daily newspapers and pictures of the 12 best-looking English women of the day.

The Crown Jewels

Every year, millions of visitors come to the Tower of London to see the Crown Jewels. The Crown Jewels have been kept in the Tower since 1303 after they were stolen from Westminster Abbey. Luckily, that time most of the Crown Jewels were found shortly afterwards and put in the Tower.

Although there have been a few attempts to steal the Crown Jewels from the Tower, none of them have succeeded. But the name of one of the thieves has remained in the British history. He was Thomas Blood.

On the 9th May, 1660, Thomas Blood, dressed as a priest, came to the Tower. He came with three well-dressed young men.

Thomas Blood had already been to the Tower a few days earlier. He was with a woman whom he introduced as his 'wife'. When they were walking round the Tower, the 'wife' pretended to feel unwell and fainted. Talbert Edwards, who was Master of the Jewel House and lived in the Jewel House with his family, took the woman upstairs to his family's rooms. He also asked his wife to help the fainted lady. In an hour or so the lady felt better and left the Tower with her 'husband'.

On the second visit, Thomas Blood, again dressed as a priest, brought a present for Edwards' wife for her help and attention to his 'wife'. He gained the confidence of the Master of the Jewel House, Talbot Edwards, and asked him to show the Crown Jewels to his friends. Talbot Edwards agreed and took them to the room where the Crown Jewels were kept. Suddenly Blood took out a hammer from under his priest's dress and struck the Master on the head. Talbert Edwards fell down and fainted. Thomas Blood took the king's crown and made it flat with the hammer in order to put the crown into a large pocket of his priest dress. The other three men took other royal jewels and hid them in their pockets.

By chance, Talbert Edwards' son, Wythe, arrived at the Tower earlier than expected. He found his father lying unconscious and bleeding. Wythe raised the alarm. Though Thomas Blood and his gang had left the jewel room, they were caught when they were getting out of the Tower. The broken crown and the jewels were found with them.

A report was immediately sent to the king, and Charles II sent for Thomas Blood. The king wanted to talk to the thief who had committed such a wicked crime. The end of the story is unbelievable. Thomas Blood was not punished. Moreover, Blood was awarded a pension of £500 a year. At the same time the Master of the Jewel House Talbot Edwards was dismissed for his carelessness. Later, he died in misery.

Since Thomas Blood's attempt in 1600 up to the present date, there have been no attempts to steal the jewels. Nowadays the priceless collection is open for the public to view and the Crown Jewels are considered to be the most well-guarded treasures in the world. They are kept in the Tower and are guarded by the Yeomen Warders, commonly known as the Beefeaters.

Studies of the atmosphere first received technical support in 1912. Equipment to measure temperature and pressure was invented in Germany. But the question was how to raise it high into the air. In 1921, Russian engineers suggested using planes. The special equipment was put on planes that made regular flights. Thanks to this, scientists got a lot of new information about the structure of the atmosphere. Nowadays scientists use modern flying laboratories to study the structure of clouds at different levels. Unlike the first planes, these laboratories can work in any weather and are able to predict climate changes.

1. What other necessary things had to be done to start operating the Channel Tunnel?
2. Why didn't the British support the first project of the Channel Tunnel?
3. How many tunnels does the project actually contain?
4. What are the safety tips while travelling through the Channel Tunnel?
5. What are the possible ways for a passenger to travel through the Channel tunnel?
6. Why is the Channel Tunnel considered to be a great engineering achievement?
7. What was the most difficult task in constructing the Channel Tunnel?

A. The Channel Tunnel (or Chunnel) is a long tunnel between England and France under the English Channel. The section under the sea is 38km long and the entire length is 50.5km. At its lowest point it is 75 metres deep. The Channel Tunnel is the longest undersea tunnel in the world. The tunnel was recognised as one of the 'Seven Wonders of the Modern World' by the American Society of Engineers.

B. For centuries, crossing the English Channel via boat had been considered a miserable task. The windy weather and choppy water made travellers seasick. So, in 1802, French engineer Albert Favier was the first person whoproposed to dig a tunnel under the water of the channel. Favier's plan was adopted by French leader Napoleon Bonaparte. But the British rejected the plan. They feared that Napoleon wanted to build the tunnel in order to invade England.

C. At the end of the 20th century the idea was revived. The digging of the Channel Tunnel began simultaneously from the British and the French coasts. The greatest challenge was making sure that both the British side of the tunnel and the French side actually met up in the middle. Special lasers and surveying equipment were used. On December 1, 1990, the meeting of the two sides was officially celebrated. For the first time in history, Great Britain and France were connected.

D. Although the meeting of the two sides of the service tunnel was a cause for great celebration, it certainly wasn't the end of the Channel Tunnel building project. Crossover tunnels, land tunnels from the coast to the terminals, electrical systems, fireproof doors, the ventilation system and train tracks all had to be added. Also, large train terminals had to be built at Folkestone in Great Britain and Coquelles in France.

E. It took 13,000 engineers and technicians to construct the Channel Tunnel. In fact, there are two running tunnels, one each way. Additionally, there is a smaller service tunnel with a crossover in the middle, so in case there's an emergency, the trains can actually change to either side. It is wrong to call it a tunnel as there are actually three tunnels. The tunnels are about 50 meters below the seabed.

F. If you want to use the tunnel, you have got a choice. You can either go on a passenger train, the Eurostar, which departs from London, Paris and Brussels city centres. Or you can go on the drive-on service, called the Eurotunnel Shuttle, starting close to the tunnel entrance where you drive your car or truck onto special rail cars.

David Beckham

David Beckham – is there a more famous and lovable celebrity? The footballer who played for such famous teams as Manchester United and Real Madrid is also a fashion model and a successful businessman.

David Beckham was born on May 2, 1975, in London, England. His father Ted Beckham was a kitchen fitter and his mother Sandra, a hair stylist. David Beckham was the family's only son. A middle child between two sisters, David grew up with parents and relatives who were great fans of Manchester United, England's legendary football club. From childhood, David was a promising footballer. At 11 he won the prestigious Bobby Charlton Soccer Schools National Skills Competition. David was noticed by Manchester United team officials, who asked him to try out for the club's youth league. By the age of 16, Beckham had to drop out of school. He left home to play for his favourite team. Two years later he became a full-time player for Manchester United and one of its leading figures.

From 1992 to 2003, playing for Manchester United, David Beckham scored 85 goals. Every time he had a game, he wore different football boots – it was a sort of ritual for good luck. In 2003, David unexpectedly left his beloved team for Real Madrid. The reason was the growing conflict between David Beckham and Manchester's manager, Sir Alex Ferguson. Once Sir Alex Ferguson fined David for babysitting with his sick child, while his wife Victoria, a designer, was at a London Fashion Week Event. The fine was really large. The incident caused a serious personal tension between the two men and ended in Beckham moving to the other club.

In Real Madrid, David Beckham was not allowed to wear his favourite number seven, because the right to wear it was written into the contract of another player. Instead, David decided to wear a shirt with number 23, which was the number of his favourite basketball player Michael Jordan. Though David Beckham immediately became very popular with the Real Madrid fans and his shirt sales made a lot of money for the football club, the team didn't win any serious tournaments. Perhaps, it was one of the reasons why in 2007 Beckham signed a five-year contract to play for the Los Angeles Galaxy and moved to America. However, his career in America was a rocky one – numerous injuries affected him. In May 2013, David Beckham announced his plans to retire.

It's important to say that David Beckham has always been a devoted husband and a loving father. David and his wife Victoria have three sons and a daughter. They say the boys are being trained as 'bodyguards' for their little sister Harper. The youngest, Cruz, has been practicing Taekwondo, Brooklyn is interested in boxing, and the oldest, Romeo, does karate. They are preparing early so that when Harper is older, "they will all be ready to protect her from noisy fans," David says.

There is a very thin atmosphere on the Moon. Life is not possible there. In spite of this, the Moon can be used as a base for space exploration and even for space tourism. 1. What is the favourite sports entertainment on Thanksgiving Day in the USA?
2. What happens to the turkeys which are chosen by the President?
3. Why was it decided to celebrate Thanksgiving at the end of November?
4. How can people make the house ready for the autumn holiday?
5. Why did the turkey become the main dish for the Thanksgiving dinner?
6. What is the day after Thanksgiving known for?
7. Why is Thanksgiving celebrated on different dates in different countries?

A. The people of Canada celebrate Thanksgiving Day on the second Monday of October every year. It is celebrated to thank God for the past harvest and pray for the coming year. The United States, however, celebrates Thanksgiving on the fourth Thursday of November every year. The reason behind the difference is geographical: autumn starts earlier in Canada than in the USA.

B. Thanksgiving is the right time to decorate homes. You can add some autumn-colored pillows to the sofa, light a candle and arrange some yellow or orange flowers in a vase. Special message boards have become very popular recently. As guests arrive for Thanksgiving, let them write what they are thankful for on a paper leaf and pin it up on the board. Paper leaves can be cut from scrapbooks and painted in autumn colours.

C. Lots of Americans cannot imagine Thanksgiving afternoon without watching TV. This tradition began in 1934. The reason was a great match between two football teams – the Detroit Lions and the Chicago Bears. That game turned out to be really exciting. Since that time, matches have been held every year (except the years of World War II) on Thanksgiving Day and have become very popular.

D. Once, President Truman chose a turkey on Thanksgiving Day and sent it back to the farm. That happened in 1947. Since that time it has become a tradition. Nowadays the President selects two turkeys and frees them in front of a large crowd. Then the turkeys are sent to a farm house to let them live in peace.

E. Some people use Thanksgiving Day and the day after to visit their families or friends. Others use this day to go shopping. The Americans call the day after Thanksgiving 'Black Friday'. It first got its name in 1960 in Philadelphia. Many people visited the city for shopping. It was overcrowded and the local people considered it a bad black day. Nowadays 'Black Friday' means the beginning of the Christmas shopping season.

F. In 1863 Sara Hale, an editor and writer, wrote a letter to President Lincoln and advised him to proclaim a national day of Thanksgiving. She selected the last Thursday in November because, as she said, the harvests were finished, the elections were over and people were back from their summer vacations. She even suggested a list of dishes for the traditional holiday menu. President Lincoln liked her idea and declared a national holiday, Thanksgiving Day.

Florence Nightingale

Florence Nightingale was a celebrated English nurse and writer. According to a survey, British people consider her to be one of the most famous British persons along with outstanding scientists, writers and politicians.

She was born into a rich, upper-class family in 1820, in Italy. She got her name Florence after the city of her birth, as there was a tradition in her family to name the children in honour of the city they were born in. She got an all-round education and according to the family's status Florence was expected to become a faithful wife and attentive mother.

However, in 1844 Florence decided to become a nurse, despite the intense anger and distress of her mother and sister. At that time nursing was seen as a job that needed neither education nor special medical skills.

In 1854 the Crimean War broke out and Florence Nightingale offered her services to the War Office and soon left for the Crimea with thirty-eight volunteer nurses. They began their work in the main British camp, in the hospital. Very soon Florence found out that hygiene was neglected, and fatal infections were common. There was no equipment to cook proper food for the patients. Florence decided to change the situation.

Nightingale managed to found a vast kitchen and a laundry. In addition to her nursing work, she tried to organize reading and recreation rooms for the wounded soldiers. She was on her feet for twenty hours a day and so were the other nurses. Florence was called 'The Lady with the Lamp' for her habit of making rounds round the hospital at night. She checked on her helpless patients. Florence remained in the Crimea until 1856, then she returned to England.

In London Florence Nightingale visited Queen Victoria and persuaded the Queen of the need to create a military hospital system. Soon Florence Nightingale set up a training school for nurses, the first nursing school in the world. It is now called The Florence Nightingale School of Nursing and Midwifery and is part of King's College in London. The annual International Nurses Day is celebrated around the world on Florence's birthday, the 12th of May.

In the Crimea camp, Nightingale got 'Crimean fever' and never fully recovered. By the time she was 38 years old, she was seriously ill. She left her house very rarely and had to stay in bed most of the time. Nevertheless, Florence continued her work from her bed. She wrote many books, some of them became the base of the curriculum at the Nightingale School and other British nursing schools.

Florence Nightingale died in London in 1910, at the age of ninety. The government offered to bury Florence in Westminster Abbey, but her relatives did not agree. However, the memorial service took place in St. Paul's Cathedral.

Florence Nightingale received a lot of honorable awards. Several books were written about the life of 'The Lady with the Lamp' and a few films were shot about her.

The mobile phone has become an important part of our everyday life. We can't imagine our lives without it now. Thanks to the mobile phone we can keep in contact with our relatives and friends at any time. We use them to text and to send emails, to share photos and videos. We can use the Internet and listen to music and do lots of other things. However, according to surveys, mobile phone users mostly spend their time on games and social networking. Around 80 percent of the world's population has a mobile phone. The mobile phone industry is the fastest growing industry in the world. From 1983 to 2016, worldwide mobile phone subscriptions grew to over seven billion.

1. Why do street artists create their works?
2. Why are serious companies getting interested in street art?
3. Where are the international street art exhibitions held?
4. What does the term street art include?
5. Which of the famous street artists managed to keep his/her real name a secret?
6. What is the most innovative technique in street art?
7. Why don’t street artists sign their works with their real names?

A. Street art can be described as art that is developed in public spaces and, above all, in the street. Typically, street art is used to separate public-space artwork from illegal graffiti and vandalism. It can mean a lot of different things including graffiti, poster art, wall paintings and just about any artwork that is displayed in public places.

B. The start of street art is closely connected to graffiti, which appeared in New York in the 1970s. For the following ten years, street art grew more and more popular and was soon joined by new forms including street installations, street sculptures and 3D pavement illusions. Kurt Wenner was the person who developed 3D pavement illusion as an absolutely new form of street art and inspired a future generation of street artists.

C. Street artists are often associated with opposition. Their artwork is considered a crime and vandalism and the artists may be arrested for damaging property, so the artists prefer to use nicknames and create their drawings mostly at night. They are not looking for fame, especially in countries where graffiti is still illegal.

D. Banksy is probably the most well-known English street artist who has already become a legendary figure. His works are exhibited in galleries across the world. An American magazine even named him among the top most influential people in the world. However, it's still true that no one knows who the person really is. He is the only one whose photo has never been made or published.

E. The motivations and ideas that inspire street artists are as different as the artists themselves. Some street artists, by creating certain works, want to draw attention to social and political problems. For other artists, street art is just a form of self-expression. And there are those who enjoy the danger and risks which are connected with working illegally in some city areas.

F. Traditional graffiti has recently been used as a successful method for advertising. Lots of companies agree that traditional advertising on city streets is too boring and common, so many people simply ignore it. However, graffiti adverts catch your attention, creating a memorable image. Big companies find this quite useful and try to include more elements of graffiti in their advertising campaigns.

The Moneyless Man

For most of us it seems that money makes the world go round. However, not for Mark Boyle who has turned his life into a radical experiment.

Mark Boyle was born in 1979 in Ireland and moved to Great Britain after getting a degree in Business. He set up his own business in Bristol. For six years Mark Boyle managed two organic food companies which made him a good profit.

However, in 2008, he decided to give up earning money. He vowed to live without cash, credit cards, or any other form of finance.

Mark Boyle began to realise that many of the world's problems are just symptoms of a deeper problem. He thought that money gave people the illusion of independence.

Mark sold his house and started preparing himself for his new life. He posted an advert on a website asking for a tent, a caravan (a vehicle for living or travelling) or any other type of a house. Soon an old lady gave him a caravan for free. At least he then had a roof over his head! After that, with his pockets empty, Mark was ready to go. He didn't even carry keys as he decided to trust the world a bit more and not lock his caravan. On November 28th (International Buy Nothing Day 2008), he became the Moneyless Man for one whole year.

Everything was different from then on. Mark lived in his caravan on an organic farm where he worked as a volunteer three days a week. In return he got a piece of land to live on and grow his own vegetables. His food was cooked on a stove, and he washed in a shower made from a plastic bag hanging from a tree, and warmed by the sun.

Even breakfast was different. With no morning coffee to brew, Mark had to find an alternative drink to start the day with. So he drank herbal teas, sometimes with some fresh lemon verbena that he could find near the caravan. "It's all very good for you: iron, calcium, anti-oxidants," Mark said.

Food was the first thing to consider. Mark discovered that there were four ways to find it: looking for wild food, growing his own food, bartering (exchanging his grown food for something else), and using loads of waste food from shops.

Public interest in his project was divided. While a huge number of people supported him, there was criticism of him, particularly on Internet forums.

"People are either very positive about what I'm doing or very negative; I think it's about 70 per cent/30 per cent. It's funny, if you don't have a massive plasma TV these days, people think you are an extremist," Mark said.

People tend to ask Mark what he learnt from a year of a moneyless life. "What have I learned? That friendship, not money, is real security," he answers.

Mark's remarkable journey is described in his new book "The Moneyless Man", which shows in a detailed way the challenges he faced on the road to his new world.

Table tennis is the third most played sport in the world after football and cricket. It is considered to be an indoor version of Lawn Tennis. However, they have a lot of differences. Table tennis has a different scoring system, a smaller ball, smaller rackets, and a smaller playing area. Modern table tennis was invented at the end of the 19th century in England. Very soon the new sport became popular all over the world. In 1901, competitions with over 300 participants were already being held. According to numerous studies, table tennis has great effects on human health. It keeps the brain sharp and improves the player's coordination.

3. What endangered plants grow in the Scottish Highlands?
4. What plant brings luck and success?
5. What is the stereotype of Scotland like?
6. Why is Scotland an attractive place for those who love sports?
7. What is the modern profile of Scotland like?

A. Thanks to television and films, Scotland is often seen by the rest of the world as a magical country, a land of misty mountains and the home of a lake creature called Nessie. This is the image most people have in mind. The truth, however, is completely different from the way the world thinks of Scotland. You may be surprised to find out that most Scots live in the lowlands and don’t believe in Nessie.

B. Scotland is much more than green hills and picturesque valleys. It’s dynamic and cosmopolitan, with a colourful history of invention and innovation. It’s the home of big businesses and a centre of new medical and scientific development. Each year, it hosts the world's biggest contemporary arts festivals.

C. Scottish heather, a small bush with flowers, is the floral symbol of the country. The colour of the flowers usually varies from purple to lilac, but they can also be white. In the past, the Scots believed that they would never be captured by enemies and would win victories if they wore white heather. Today, when getting married, girls add white heather to bouquets to bring fortune to their family.

D. Heather has grown in Scotland as far back as its history goes. It is an essential thing for any household. Famous heather honey is rich in minerals, and was traditionally used in medicinal drinks. Traditionally dried heather was used to make perfumes, and the tough stems were used to make ropes. On many of the northern Scottish islands, heather was used in the construction of houses.

E. Scotland is an excellent destination for open-air activities all year round. Its lakes and coastline are ideal for boating and rowing and have some of the best sea-kayaking in the world. The rivers are perfect for fishing and the mountains are wonderful for hill climbing and skiing. Scotland is also good for walkers. You can enjoy easy family walks or more difficult mountain hikes.

F. The history of Scotland is rich in armed conflicts. The Scots have always valued physical power and the skills needed for battle and survival. That’s why the Highland Games were very popular. They date back to long before Scotland’s written history. The Games are still held today and include the athletic competitions in their original form as well as dancing contests. Traditional bagpipe music accompanies all the events.

Jeans

The history of jeans goes as far back as the 16th century when sailors in Genoa (Italy) wore a material that eventually became the material used in jeans. The word ‘jean’ derives from the name of the Italian port city Genoa, as it was a custom to name a produced in Lancashire, England.

It was the California Gold Rush of 1849 that started the evolution of American trousers that would one day become blue jeans. The gold miners wanted clothes that were strong and did not tear easily. The person who suggested an appropriate type of clothing was a German businessman Levi Strauss, who had moved to America. Levi Strauss sold many different things, but his main product was a tough canvas material used for tents and wagon covers. Understanding the urgent need of the gold miners Levi Strauss decided to make trousers out of the tough canvas he was selling. The miners liked the new ‘working’ trousers, though they were uncomfortable to wear as the material was too rough.

To improve the trousers for miners, Levi Strauss began looking for a different material and soon he found a suitable one in France. The material was called ‘serge de Nimes’. Americans just called it ‘de Nimes’, and this name soon became its short form ‘denim’. Denim was a bit lighter and softer than the material Levi Strauss used for his working trousers. It was very strong and did not wear out quickly, even after many washes. The trousers made of denim became quite popular among the miners.

The only problem was that original denim was almost white and the trousers got dirty as soon as the miners started working! For that reason Levi Strauss decided to use coloured denim, and he chose dark blue. This was a radical new idea and ‘Blue jeans’ had arrived!

Levi's jeans were so popular, that his company got bigger and bigger. Other firms were making blue jeans too. Miners liked them, but so did cowboys and other working men.

Levi’s jeans were work trousers. Male workers wore them all the time but a gentleman would not even think of wearing jeans. Things changed when western movies became popular. All the cowboys wore jeans and people thought they looked heroic, attractive and cool. Also jeans were greatly popularized in Europe by American off-duty soldiers who wore them during World War II. They made jeans seem like casual American trousers, a symbol of the American lifestyle.
In the 2000s, the sale of classic blue jeans stopped growing. Young people were not particularly interested in traditional jeans styles, mainly because of their parents, who adored jeans. Since no teenager would wear the clothes their parents were wearing, the latest generation of youth turned to other fabrics and styles. They still wear denim, but it had to be in new cuts, shapes and styles.

A zoo, also known as a zoological park or a zoological garden, gives people the opportunity to watch animals from different continents. There are hundreds of zoos all over the world. However, most of them are located in major cities. The first zoo in Russia was opened in 1864, in Moscow. It was a small zoological garden. On the opening day, only 287 animals were on display. Nowadays, the Moscow Zoo is one of the largest in Europe. The unique collection of the Zoo includes over 8000 kinds of animals and birds. Scientists study the animals' behavior and reproduction. They also breed rare animals there to stop them dying out.

1. What old Irish traditions are still followed?
2. What vegetables are exported from Ireland to other countries?
3. What vegetable is very popular in Irish cuisine?
4. Why were Irish people afraid of wearing green in old times?
5. What made the Irish town popular?
6. What is wrong with the stereotype of an Irish person?
7. How can you keep the talisman effective?

A. When you think of the Irish, you often picture a red-haired person dressed all in green. However, it’s just a popular myth. It’s customary in Ireland to wear green clothes only on St. Patrick’s Day. Lots of people are tricked by this cliché. In fact, originally, the colour associated with Saint Patrick was not green but blue.

B. In Ireland, the colour green was long considered to bring bad fortune. The reason is that, in Irish folklore, green is the favourite color of the Good People (the proper name for fairies). Myths run that they are likely to steal people, especially children, who wear too much of the colour. In the past, a girl would never wear anything green on her wedding day.

C. Christmas is a very important celebration in Ireland. People try to keep the old Irish customs. After dinner on Christmas Eve, it is still common for families to leave milk and bread on the table as a sign of friendliness and kindness. Another custom is to leave the door unlocked. A lit candle is left in a window during the night. It represents help for any traveller who is passing by.

D. Irish people enjoy good and substantial food. The basis for many traditional Irish dishes is potatoes which are eaten boiled, mashed, fried and baked. Potatoes are mixed with cabbage or green onions to make traditional Irish dishes. They are also made into potato cakes and used in soups or stews. It's common to find potatoes cooked in two different ways on the same dinner plate.

E. In Ireland it is believed that shamrock brings good fortune to everyone. It helps in different situations and saves its owner from bad luck. There are certain conditions to be met so that its power remains strong: the owner of the shamrock must keep it away from the public eye and never give it to anyone else.

F. Ireland is known as the native land of limericks – short humorous poems that have five lines. They make people laugh and are easy to remember! Lots of poets and writers were fond of limericks. The word limerick probably comes from the Irish town of Limerick. The short poem has made the town known all over the world.

Mark Twain

Mark Twain wrote 'The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn' in 1884. Since then, the book has been published in at least sixty languages, and some people say it is the best book ever created by an American writer. American students have 'The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn' on their school reading list and parents, teachers and literary experts still debate the problems touched in the book.

The writer's real name was Samuel Clemens. Samuel was born in 1835. He grew up in the state of Missouri on the Mississippi River. After his father died, young Samuel went to work as an assistant to a publisher. Ten years later, he became a pilot on a steamboat that sailed on the Mississippi. He heard the riverboat workers call out the words “mark twain!” That was a measure for the depth of water. Later he used this word combination as a pen-name.

In 1861 Clemens travelled west and became a reporter for newspapers in Nevada and California. He wrote news stories, editorials and sketches under his pen-name Mark Twain. He became one of the best known storytellers in the West. He developed his own narrative style – friendly, funny, and often satirical, which won him a wide audience. The first success came with the story ‘The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County’.

Mark Twain travelled a lot during his lifetime not only round the USA but also to Europe and the Holy Land. He naturally began writing books about his travels. ‘The Adventures of Tom Sawyer’ was published in 1876, and soon after he began writing a sequel, ‘The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn’.

It took Mark Twain longer to write ‘The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn’ than any of his other books. He started writing in 1876, but put the story away after about two years of work. He returned to it in 1883, and the following year it was published.

From the beginning, the book was strongly debated. Some critics praised its realism and honesty, but the others strongly disliked it. They protested against the personality of Huck – a rough, dirty and disobedient boy. They could not agree that such a person should be the main character of a book. What’s more, critics disliked the way Mark Twain used the language of a common, uneducated person to tell the story; no writer had ever done that before.

Today there is no longer any debate about the importance of ‘The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn’ in American literature. In 1935 Ernest Hemingway wrote: “All modern American literature comes from one book by Mark Twain called ‘Huckleberry Finn.’ There was nothing before. And there has been nothing as good since.”

No wonder then that the novel ‘The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn’ was a great inspiration for film producers – more than 20 screen versions of the book have been shot not only in America, but also in Europe, Russia and Japan. There are feature films, musicals, cartoons and even Japanese anime.

1. How many official languages are there in the Republic of Ireland?
2. Which colour dominates on the island?
3. What do the colours of the Irish flag mean?
4. What Irish name is now used as a noun in several European languages?
5. After what Irish person did a geographical place get its name?
6. What are the two things associated with the country?
7. Why is the name of an Irishman well-known in the United States?

A. One of the informal names of Ireland is ‘the Emerald Isle’. This is because of its lush greenery and rolling hills. The island country receives a lot of rain each year, which keeps the grass green and the plants blooming. Experts argue that the flora of Ireland demonstrates more than forty shades of green.

B. The most famous symbol of Ireland is undoubtedly the shamrock clover. However, the official emblem of the country is the Celtic harp. Ireland is the only country in the world to have a musical instrument as its national symbol. The harp has become Ireland’s national symbol not because it was created there, but due to the collection of the oldest harps in the world which can now be seen in the museum at Trinity College in Dublin.

C. There is a tricolour of green, white and orange vertical stripes on the national flag of the Republic of Ireland. The flag was designed to reflect the country's political situation. Created in 1848, the orange stripe represents Irish Protestants. Green is for Irish Catholics and white is for the hope that peace might eventually be reached between them.

D. Most people of the Republic of Ireland speak English. Itis the second official language of the country because, according to the Constitution, Irish (Gaelic) is the national language of the Republic of Ireland. Irish was the primary language that was used on the island. Though children are still taught Irish at school, the language is losing its importance.

E. The White House, the official residence of the US President, was designed by an Irishman. James Hoban was born in Ireland and studied architecture in his homeland. In 1792, James Hoban won a competition for the construction of the President's house in America. He spent nine years supervising the building process. He also designed a few other important buildings in the American capital. No wonder that the name of James Hoban is famous across the ocean.

F. The widely used word boycott originated in Ireland. In 1880, a campaign of isolation against Charles Boycott, a land agent, was started. He threw out the farmers from his land when they complained that the rents were too high. After that, the local shops refused to serve him, his servants left and the boy who delivered his mail disappeared too. The surname of the land agent became a word which means 'silently ignoring somebody or something'. The word was adopted in English, French, Dutch, German, Russian etc.

Tea

Everybody knows that Britain is a tea-drinking nation. Tea is more than just a drink to the British –– it is a way of life. Many people drink it first with breakfast, then mid-morning, with lunch, at tea-time (around 5 o'clock), with dinner and finally just before bed. As a nation, they go through 185 million cups per day! No less than 77% of British people are regular tea drinkers; they drink more than twice as much tea as coffee.

A legend says that tea was discovered in China in the third millennium BC. When a Chinese Emperor was having breakfast in his garden, a tea leaf fell into his cup with hot water. The water became coloured and the Emperor was delighted with the taste of the new drink. To Britain, tea came much later. It happened in the 17th century, when the British ships landed on the shore of China and came back with a load of tea.

Tea drinking became fashionable in England after Charles II married the Portuguese princess Catherine of Braganza. She adored tea and introduced it to the royal court. Just as people today will copy celebrities, people in the 17th and 18th centuries copied the royal family. Tea drinking spread like wildfire, starting first among the nobles and then spreading to wealthy businessmen who liked to sit down for a nice 'cuppa' in coffee houses. Tea was an expensive product. It was only for the rich and often kept under lock and key.

In the 17th century the British really had two daily meals –– breakfast and dinner. Dinner was the heaviest meal of the day, and was usually served in the afternoon. The custom of eating a regular 'afternoon tea' began during the 1700's, as people began serving dinner later and later in the evening. For the aristocracy, or at least for the Duchess Anna Maria of Bedford, 6 hours between meals was simply too long. She began to ask for a cup of tea and light snacks to be served around 5 pm, and then began to invite guests to join her. The custom of 'afternoon tea' was born, and it spread among the upper classes and then among the workers, for whom this late afternoon meal became the main of the day.

The first tea shop for ladies was opened by Thomas Twining in 1717 and slowly tea shops began to appear throughout England making the drinking of tea available to everyone. The British appreciated the new drink for its taste. It was also believed that tea cured lots of diseases. However, the most important thing was that drinking tea prevented lots of diseases –– to make the drink people used boiled water and drank less raw water.

For centuries now, tea has been the national drink of Great Britain. Tea has so thoroughly integrated itself into British culture that during World War II the government was seriously afraid that the country's morale could suffer from the lack of tea and made a special decision to ration it.

Tea has worked its way into language too. Nowadays people have tea breaks at work, even if they drink coffee or cola. Many people call the main evening meal tea, even if they drink beer with it. When there is a lot of trouble about something very unimportant, it is called a storm in a tea cup. When someone is upset or depressed, people say they need tea and sympathy. In fact, tea is the best treatment for all sorts of problems and troubles.

The Arctic Ocean is the smallest ocean of the world. It covers the northern polar region of the Earth. The Arctic region is a very cold place. The lowest recorded temperature there is minus 68 degrees. In spite of the cold, a lot of animals live on the Arctic ice. The polar bear is one of them. Now, due to global warming, the polar bear is in a serious trouble. The thing is that polar bears hunt seals and they need ice to do this. The bears wait for seals on the ice, hunt them in the water and go back to the shore. If the ice is too thin, it breaks under the bears' heavy bodies and they may drown. The situation is getting worse and some researchers say the ocean may become ice-free as soon as 2050.

1. What natural resource do Icelanders use as an alternative to central heating?
2. What should you take with you when going to Iceland?
3. What are thenational characteristics of the local people?
4. In what seasons can you see snow in Iceland?
5. What extreme excursions can the country offer?
6. What does a traditional Icelandic house look like?
7. Why are these animals widely used in tourist business?

A. In spite of its hard northern climate, Iceland is very attractive to tourists. Many people who have visited the country once want to go there again and again. The country turns skeptics into poets and optimists. It’s not only because of the views but also because of the local people. Icelanders are friendly and hospitable and welcome guests. It really compensates for the cold harsh climate!

B. An adventurous traveller would never mistake Iceland’s scenery for any other because of the boiling water fountains and the steam coming from the earth. Smoking volcanoes attract the bravest tourists. Iceland is the only place in the world where you can hike up a volcano and even go inside. There are guided walks to the glaciers, large masses of slowly moving ice, too.

C. Icelandic weather is unpredictable throughout the year. Bright sunshine can easily change to cold and miserable weather within a few hours. In the summer, rain is typical in Iceland. From September to May, when the temperature falls, it often snows, especially on the south and west coasts.

D. Till nowadays Icelanders cannot do without horses. And horses are very important not only for farming. From the Viking Age, horses have become a part of Iceland's culture. They look like My Little Pony toys but they are exceptionally strong, so they can do heavy work and survive cold winters. The horses are good-natured, which is perfect for new riders. Guesthouses and travel companies across the country offer horse rides and tours.

E. If you decide to visit Iceland, you'll never regret your decision. The only thing that can spoil your trip is the weather. That's why it's very important to get a reliable weather forecast whatever season it is. If you wear appropriate clothes and have some smart heating devices, neither rain nor snow can ruin your trip.

F. Hengill, a place near Reykjavik, is a famous landmark of the country. It is a field of more than 7 thousand hot springs. The water from the springs is used to warm the houses and to fill the open pools in the capital of Iceland. The water comes from below the earth where the temperature is about seven thousand degrees.

The will

One day young William was called to a lawyer's office. The lawyer announced that William's uncle had left him a thousand dollars. He also added that William was required to give the lawyer a report of how he used the money as soon as he spent it. That was his uncle's last wish. William promised to follow his uncle's wish and went straight to his club. He looked for Bryson, a calm wise man of about forty, who was sitting in a corner reading a book. When William told him about the contents of the will, Bryson did not seem at all surprised. He only remarked that the uncle was worth about half a million.

William told Bryson that his uncle had left a lot of money to charity while his servants had received only ten dollars each. There was one more person mentioned in the will, Miss Hayden, a distant relative who lived in the uncle's house. She was a quiet, musical girl and the dearest woman in the world to William. William had been in love with her for two years but he had never told her about his feelings.

William had no idea how to spend a thousand dollars and he hated making the report. He had a feeling that his uncle was making fun of him.

In the street William saw a blind man selling pencils. William went up to him and asked him what he would do with the money. The blind man shrugged his shoulders and said that he had never seen such a huge amount of money and therefore had never had the problem of spending such a sum. William bought all his pencils and gave him ten dollars above the price.
William was walking down the empty street when he had an idea.

He got into a cab and went to his uncle's house where Miss Hayden lived. He found her, sad and beautiful, writing letters in the library. William knew that like the servants she had received nothing from his uncle but ten dollars. So he said that there was an addition to his uncle's will that allowed her to have a thousand dollars and he gave her the money there and then. Miss Hayden turned white, took the banknotes and put them in the drawer of the writing desk. Then she quietly thanked William and gave him a shy smile.

In excitement William went back to the lawyer's office, ready to hand over the report. Suddenly the lawyer took out another document which had been given to him by William's uncle and started reading. It said that in the case that William spent the money wisely, he was to receive another fifty thousand dollars. On the contrary, if he had spent it in a foolish way, the fifty thousand would go to Miss Hayden.

Smiling brightly, William destroyed the report and said he had lost a thousand dollars on the races. William realised that he was going to lose much more than that, but he felt happy about it.

It's hard to find a more popular Russian symbol than the traditional Russian doll, or Matryoshka. It is well-known all over the world. The first set of dolls appeared in Moscow in 1890. It consisted of eight dolls. All of them were children: seven girls, one boy, and a baby. In those times, Matryoshkas were not meant as toys for children as their price was very high. Mostly, adults bought them as presents or home decorations. There was a belief that if you put a note with a wish into Matryoshka, it would come true. At the beginning of the 20th century, Russia started to export their national dolls abroad.

1. What can the Indian ancient drawings tell us about?
2. Why do people come to the holy waters?
3. Where are Indian movies made?
4. Why is India getting more and more popular with tourists?
5. How can travellers escape the heat?
6. Which ancient language influenced modern languages a lot?
7. Why is the Indian capital called a city of contrasts?

A. The world’s first university was established in India in 700 BC, where more than 10,500 students from around the world studied more than 60 different subjects. The training was conducted in Sanskrit. Nowadays, Sanskrit is considered to be the mother of all the European languages. Its elements can be traced in most of them.

B. The most frequently visited place in India is Delhi, the capital city of the country. It seems to be divided into two parts. New Delhi is a modern city with hi-tech architecture, tourist attractions and modern facilities. Old Delhi is several centuries old, with narrow streets, ancient churches and noisy bazaars. Lots of people live in slums without the most essential facilities like toilets and running water.

C. People all over the world know of India's greatest river, the Ganges. The river looks extremely beautiful in the morning light. It is the subject of thousands of prayers. It has become a common ritual for pilgrims to gather by the holy river in the mornings. It is believed that bathing in the Ganges helps to cure all kinds of diseases and can improve your life in general.

D. Indian climate differs from one part of the country to another. The air is cool and fresh in the mountains, but in the plains it is usually very hot and dry, so even a short trip can be very hard for an inexperienced traveller. That is why tourists are always glad to have a rest at one of the numerous stations in the hills. There they can enjoy a nice cup of real Indian tea, the most refreshing drink in such a climate.

E. India is not all history. It is also famous for its Bollywood industry, which produces different films. Indian films have always had their own style; they are rich in music and dancing. Though the industry is still developing, many Indian film stars have received Oscar prizes and are known throughout the world. The home of Bollywood is Mumbai, also known as a busy port and the country's commercial centre.

F. There is an unusual treasure hidden in the Indian mountains. These are striking ancient temples cut in the rocks. For example, the Buddhist cave temples at Ajanta were built at least 2,000 years ago. Inside the caves on the walls, tourists can see animal images and pictures of people's lives. Some researchers believe that the interpretation of the images can help us to learn a lot about people's lives in ancient times.

Hershey's chocolate

People from all over the world like the taste of chocolate. It's the most popular dessert and snack. You may like dark or milk chocolate, you may prefer it plain or with nuts, but whatever your tastes are, you will certainly enjoy the chocolate produced by the Hershey Company.

Hershey chocolate became famous all over the world thanks to a quiet but very hard-working and generous person – Milton Hershey, the founder of the company.

Milton Hershey grew up in Pennsylvania, USA. His mother wanted him to learn practical skills. She believed practice is more important than college education. So when Milton finished the fourth grade, she arranged for him to become a printer's assistant. But Milton didn't like the job and left it soon after. In a while he became an assistant in a candy factory. He helped to make candy and became very successful at it.

After a few years of training, Milton understood that he wanted to start his own business.
He bought the equipment and started the Lancaster Caramel Company. Success soon followed. Within a few years, Milton Hershey had a growing business and was selling his caramels all over the country. At that time he became focused on milk chocolate, which in those days was an expensive dessert imported from Switzerland. Milton Hershey was determined to find a new formula for the product that could allow him to manufacture milk chocolate in large amounts and sell it countrywide. He succeeded in making a new recipe.

So, in 1900 Milton Hershey sold his caramel company and started up a chocolate factory. In fact it was more than a factory. Milton Hershey built a whole town around the factory – with houses, schools, churches, and stores. He wanted the people who worked in his factory to live nearby and feel comfortable. The factory was focused on producing the Nickel Bar, a relatively cheap chocolate bar that everyone could afford. Later, Hershey Kisses were added. These delicious, bite-sized pieces of chocolate were named after Milton Hershey himself.

As success and profits rose, Milton Hershey invested more money in the infrastructure of his town and added a sports arena, a stadium, and a school for orphaned children.

Milton Hershey died in Hershey, Pennsylvania, in 1945, one year after his retirement as chairman of the board. He was 88 years old. By the end of his life Hershey had donated most of his money to his town and the school for orphans.

His chocolate factory remains the largest in the world. The town of Hershey is still home to about 12,000 people and draws more than 30 million visitors each year. They come to see the famous Hershey Park, which boasts a roller coaster, Ferris wheel and other rides. The factory tours draw more visitors annually than the White House. Guests can take a tour through a mock chocolate factory that includes a ride through a simulated roasting oven, and eating samples of Hershey chocolate.

1. What was coffee's long way to Europe like?
2. How did drinking coffee become a social life activity?
3. How was coffee discovered?
4. Why was coffee prohibited in some countries?
5. What ingredients are used in coffee recipes?
6. Why do some people refuse to drink coffee?
7. What helped coffee to conquer the USA?

A. Coffee was first found in Eastern Africa in the area we know today as Ethiopia. A popular legend says that one day, a man called Kaldi was watching his goats eating grass and leaves. He noticed that after eating berries from a certain bush, the goats became very active. Curious, Kaldi tried the berries himself. He found that these berries gave him additional energy. The story quickly spread throughout the region.

B. The first coffee berries were transported from Ethiopia to Arabian countries and then they were cultivated in Yemen. From there, coffee travelled to Turkey where coffee beans were roasted for the first time over open fires. The roasted beans were crushed and then boiled in water, creating the drink we enjoy today. Finally, in the seventeenth century, coffee arrived in France, Britain and Italy.

C. The first coffeehouses opened in Mecca and quickly became popular centres of social and political activity. The government believed that coffee stimulated radical thinking, and even thought it might unite the opposition. As a result, soon coffee was forbidden in Mecca. The same thing happened in Turkey a century later, when coffee drinkers were severely punished.

D. They say, in 1776, the thirteen American colonies adopted coffee as their national drink instead of tea. When the British tried to raise the tax on tea, Americans refused to buy it and switched to coffee. In fact, by drinking coffee, Americans demonstrated their political views and their dislike for the British – the famous tea-lovers.

E. The Italians drink their espresso with sugar, the Germans and Swiss add an equal part of hot chocolate, the Mexicans prefer it with cinnamon, and the Belgians – with chocolate. Coffee drinkers in the Middle East usually add cardamom and spices. The Egyptians, on the other hand, are extremely fond of pure, strong coffee. They add neither milk nor cream.

F. When the first European coffeehouses opened, they quickly grew into places where people played chess, exchanged gossip, sang and danced. Coffeehouses were very popular. Anyone could go and enjoy a cup of the drink because the price of a cup of coffee was reasonable. European coffeehouses became meeting points for intellectuals, writers and businessmen.

The Open Window

Mr. Nuttel, a young gentleman, came to live in the country. The doctors said a quiet place like that and complete rest could help cure his nerves. He didn't know anyone round there. That's why his sister gave him letters of introduction to some nice people she knew.

One of the letters was to Mrs. Sappleton. When Mr. Nuttel visited her, Mrs Sappleton was busy and he was asked to wait for several minutes. The servant invited Mr. Nuttel into a room. There Mr. Nuttel met Mrs. Sappleton's niece, a very self-confident young lady of fifteen. The young lady asked him what he knew about her aunt. Mr. Nuttel knew nothing except Mrs. Sappleton's name and address.

Mr. Nuttel looked around. There was something about the room that told him there were other people living in the house. So he was wondering if Mrs. Sappleton was married. Suddenly the girl got sad and told a story of Mrs. Sappleton's tragedy. Mr. Nuttel was greatly surprised because his sister hadn't told him anything about it. The tragedy was very unusual for that peaceful place.

The girl pointed at the French window, which opened on to the lawn and said that Mrs. Sappleton always kept it open. Mr. Nuttel stated that it was natural to keep the window open because the weather was quite warm. But the girl sighed and explained that her poor aunt always kept the window open in the evenings because she was waiting for her husband and sons to return. Three years ago they had gone hunting and never came back. The story caught Mr. Nuttel's imagination deeply. He felt very upset.

He felt a little better only when Mrs. Sappleton finally appeared in the room. She apologized for being late and asked if he minded the open window. She said her husband and sons would soon be home from hunting. They always came in that way. Then, she continued talking cheerfully about hunting ducks. But Mr. Nuttel felt terrible.

He made an attempt to change the topic and told her about the reasons why he had come to the country. But Mrs. Sappleton didn't seem to notice. She was constantly looking at the open window. Mr. Nuttel felt uncomfortable. He understood that he had chosen the wrong moment to visit her. Suddenly Mrs. Sappleton cried happily pointing at the window, "Here they are at last, just in time for tea!" Three male figures were walking across the lawn towards the window. They carried guns and a dog followed them.

Shocked and afraid, Mr. Nuttel grabbed his stick and hat and rushed out of the house. Mrs. Sappleton was extremely surprised at the extraordinary man who had left the house so quickly without a word. Her niece suggested that it was because of the dog. She said that Mr. Nuttel had been afraid of them since childhood –– once, a dog had seriously bitten him. This was enough to make the young man lose his nerve. The young lady was so good at making up stories!

Bicycles or bikes are an important means of transportation in many parts of the world. The first bicycles turned up in Europe in the first half of the19th century but the word “bicycle” only appeared later, in 1868. There are more bicycles in the world than cars. A lot of people have realized that cycling is an easy way to get around and a great way to cut down on pollution. More and more cities have special places where people can borrow a bike and ride around the city. Over the past few years, a bicycle infrastructure has been created in Moscow. Cycling in the centre of Moscow in summer is one of the most pleasant and quickest ways of seeing the city.

1. Why were ravens considered to be scary and dangerous birds?
2. Why is keeping a raven as a pet really difficult?
3. How do ravens entertain themselves?
4. What is a raven's essential diet?
5. How can you distinguish a raven from a crow?
6. Why are ravens important for Great Britain?
7. What tricks do ravens play to get and save their food?

A. For intelligence, ravens rate up with chimpanzees and dolphins. These birds have the largest brain of any bird species. Ravens can push rocks on people to keep them from climbing to their nests and play dead to scare other ravens away from a delicious meal. If a raven knows another raven is watching, it hides the tasty bits. It pretends to put the food in one place but hides it in another.

B. It's amazing to watch ravens sliding on snow-covered roofs. For fun, they also roll down snowy hills. Ravens often play keep-away with other animals like wolves, foxes and dogs. They even make toys – a rare animal behavior – from sticks, pine cones, golf balls, or rocks to play with each other or by themselves. When they feel bored, they mock other creatures like crows, cats and dogs and find it very amusing.

C. According to surveys, the ravens are one of the main reasons why tourists come to see the Tower of London. Nobody knows when the ravens first appeared there but there is a belief that at least six ravens must always remain on the territory of the Tower. Otherwise, the British Monarchy may fall. To prevent the birds from flying away their wings are clipped every three weeks.

D. In the past, in some cultures, people were truly afraid of these dark birds. In Germany, ravens were considered to be the incarnation of criminals' souls. In Sweden, ravens were thought to be the souls of murdered people. And in Denmark, people believed that it was dangerous to look at ravens because you could turn into a raven yourself.

E. Sometimes people find injured ravens and take them home, but it's really challenging. These birds require a lot of care, a lot of freedom and a lot of time. Ravens are wild creatures, and they cannot be treated like cats and dogs are. If the bird is strong and healthy, it is unfair and cruel to keep it in captivity. In some countries it's even illegal. So if you really love and admire these birds, enjoy them from a distance.

F. These birds are often confused with each other because they are both black birds. Even people who are well aware of the differences between them can get confused. Ravens are larger than crows, with thicker beaks and longer tails. Ravens have a deeper voice than crows.

Glastonbury Festival

Glastonbury Festival is one of the largest open air music and art festivals in the world. It became an example which other festivals followed. Of course, Glastonbury is best known for modern music, but its programme also includes dance, comedy, theatre, circus and other arts.

The festival organiser, Michael Eavis, was a common farmer. In 1970 he visited an open air concert which greatly impressed him. So he decided to organise a big festival outdoors in the same year. He knew it wouldn't bring any money, but it didn't matter. At the first festival there were more than one thousand people. Each of them paid £1 for the ticket. The price also included free milk from the farm. Later on, the festival took place almost every year and grew in size and audience.

The festival takes place in southwest England on a farm. It's a beautiful and mystical place called the Valley of Avalon. It is surrounded with a lot of legends, symbols, myths, and religious traditions dating back many hundreds of years. Legends say that here King Arthur's sword was made and the king himself was buried there. No wonder that the main stage of the festival, Pyramid Stage, has the form of a pyramid. Many believe that this is a very powerful structure, which gets energy from the stars and gives it to people.

In many ways, Glastonbury is like a mix of different festivals, which take place in the countryside and last for a weekend. Each area of the festival has its own character, its own fans and its own special attractions. For example, dance lovers go to the Dance Village. There is also a big cinema area, *Theatre and Circu*s. Children can have fun in the Kids' Field. Some people spend the whole weekend in their favourite area. However, most of them prefer walking around and trying lots of different things.

Most people who stay at Glastonbury Festival live in tents. There are lots of different camping areas, each one with its own atmosphere. You can choose where to stay: in a quiet place or a lively one. There are also places for families and disabled people. Anyway, you should remember to bring a tent with you. Of course, it's possible to rent one, but it's quite expensive.
Glastonbury Festival supports Greenpeace and has a number of programmes. There are hundreds of rubbish bins on the territory. All cans, glass, paper, electrical and electronic equipment, wood and waste are separated and recycled. Visitors are asked to clean after themselves and not to leave rubbish. The festival supports those who come by public transport or by bicycle, not by car.

If you're thinking about visiting Glastonbury, you should book tickets in advance. Today an average ticket is about £200 for three days, which is quite expensive. Nevertheless, the tickets are sold out in two or three hours. So be quick to catch them. There are usually more people wishing to get to the festival than tickets.

You have received an email message from your English-speaking pen-friend Emily:

From: Emily@mail.uk
To: Russian_friend@oge.ru
Subject: Coming late
… Last month I was late for my classes several times. Though I wasn't late on purpose and it wasn't actually my fault, I was punished. … Do any students in your class sometimes come too late to school? What are their usual reasons for coming late? Is there any punishment for late comers at your school and what is it?...

Write a message to Emily and answer her 3 questions.

Write 100–120 words.

Task 1. You are going to read the text aloud. You have 1.5 minutes to read the text silently, and then be ready to read it aloud. Remember that you will not have more than 2 minutes for reading aloud.

English is the third most-spoken language in the world after Chinese and Spanish. Over 840 million people speak English as a first or second language. It is an official language of sixty-seven countries. 80 percent of information stored on all computers in the world is in English. The vocabulary of the English language is the biggest in the world. A new word is added into English almost every two hours. The English language is said to be one of the happiest languages in the world. The word happy is used more often than the word sad! That's a good reason to learn this language, isn't it?

Task 3. You are going to give a talk about learning foreign languages. You will have to start in 1.5 minutes and speak for not more than 2 minutes (10−–12 sentences). Remember to say:

- why lots of people learn foreign languages nowadays;
- why you have chosen to do the English exam this year;
- what you did to prepare for your English exam;
- what your attitude to learning foreign languages is.

You have to talk continuously.

Task 1

Text A. Hi, everyone! I'd like to give you some advice on our hiking holiday. Tomorrow I'll be waiting for you at the railway station at 8 a.m. It's hot, but anyway don't go with bare legs. Our route goes through bushes and rocky hills. Wear comfortable jeans or sports trousers if you don't want your legs to be scratched or mosquito bitten. Do not forget water but don't take much food. We'll be taking breaks at places equipped with barbeques where we can enjoy baked and grilled food.

Text B. Hi, Steve! It's Mary. I've already ordered a cherry-cake for mum's birthday, so don't worry about it. Now I'm in the shopping centre, looking for a present for mum from both of us. I've found nothing except a large indoor plant in a ceramic pot. At first, I wanted to buy her an umbrella but they all had an awful flower print, which I think she won't like. As for the green plant, she's always liked things like that. If you agree, I'll pay and order the delivery. Bye!

Text C.

Max: You're always busy at weekends, Nancy. What is wrong?

Nancy: Nothing, Max! I just have to help my mum in her vet clinic. They're doing some renovations there.

Max: Oh, yeah! A small family business always requires time and effort. Are you going to work as a vet too, together with your mum?

Nancy: She'd be happy! My sister is allergic to cats, dogs and whatever. So, I'm mum's only hope of taking over the clinic which she's so proud of, but…

Max: Don't tell me you don't like animals.

Nancy: Of course, I do! But I've always dreamed of a career in professional sports, which can't be combined with running a clinic!

Max: No, it can't!

Text D.

Alice: It's almost lunchtime! Are you hungry, Ron?

Ron: No, Alice! Not really, but I wouldn't mind some pancakes with strawberry jam!

Alice: I wouldn't mind pancakes either! But sorry, we've got neither eggs nor milk to make them! What we can make is either spaghetti or sandwiches with ham and cheese.

Ron: You know what I'll choose, don't you?

Alice: Oh, yeah! I know that you're happy to eat spaghetti three times a day! Ok. I'll have it too, so as not to cook anything else. Would you like your spaghetti with some sauce or with salad?

Ron: With tomato sauce, please.

Alice: It would be nice of you to help me set a table.

Task 2

Presenter:

Good afternoon. Today we have asked 5 people to give us a short interview and share their opinions about films and cinema. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A. Don't get me wrong! I love watching films on the big screen but the rest of the experience is pretty awful! Just imagine, you're in the cinema, ready to see the film and someone next to you has a bag of popcorn or a bag of sweets, so they open it up, half-way through the film and to make things worse, they start chewing loudly! That drives me mad! Or even worse they talk on their cellphones through the entire movie and start kicking the back of my chair accidently or otherwise.

Speaker B. There are different ways to choose a good film to watch. Personally, I always read the official reviews on the Internet. I believe the things that professional critics say about the plot, the acting and the shooting. If they say the film is worth seeing, I go and see it. Apart from that, I rely on my friends' opinions, as our tastes in films are quite similar. They know what genres I like and which I don't. In most cases these recommendations are more than enough for me.

Speaker C. I am sure that it is one of the most celebrated films in the entire history of film-making, a great all-time classic! It has everything that makes it just fantastic: a talented director, a perfect cast, a great soundtrack, a touching story, you name it! The shooting and acting are superb! It's not an epic, not a horror, but a drama that will suit most viewers' tastes. It's absolutely essential to watch it at least once. Personally, I watch it every time I feel sad or disappointed. It just lifts up my mood!

Speaker D. I'm a great cinema and film fan. However, there are some genres I never watch. Like, I don't watch horror films, they seem to be all about the scare factor and in most cases, they do not have a good plot or story. You'll never see me watching an action film either. They're almost always the same. The good guys try to save the world. No special characters, nothing that makes me interested in the story, and I'm not interested in seeing fights and car races for hours and hours.

Speaker E. I don't like going to the cinema, I haven't been there for almost ten years. I don't do well, sitting and doing one thing for an hour and a half. I don't feel safe, plus, I can't make myself pay for a ticket and spend that much money on snacks only to sit in the dark and focus on one thing! When I'm in my room or in the kitchen, I can do other things while I'm watching a movie, like having a snack or making dinner. Then I can pause it any time I need, so it's really convenient.

Interviewer: First of all, I would like to thank you for agreeing to take part in our survey! It's really very important for us.

Respondent: My pleasure.

Interviewer: I see that you've just left the library. Do you often go there to borrow books?

Respondent: In fact, I was in the library for a different reason. I work there. I'm a librarian.

Interviewer: So, you are a librarian, aren't you? Okay. Have you ever worked in any other places?

Respondent: Of course! I've worked as a waitress, a secretary, an office manager and whatever. This is my twelfth job in fact.

Interviewer: You've already tried twelve different jobs! Fantastic!

Respondent: Yes! I enjoy trying new things and learning new skills!

Interviewer: Right! Can I ask you about the foreign languages you speak?

Respondent: Of course! The language I learned in college was Chinese and I'm still learning it because you can never speak Chinese well enough.

Interviewer: Oh, it's so difficult! Why didn't you choose Spanish or German?

Respondent: I don't know why! I just wanted to learn Chinese!

Interviewer: What is your hobby? What do you do for pleasure? Do you like drawing or dancing?

Respondent: Hmm… No, I like travelling. It's my real hobby, and my favourite destination is China. I've been there several times and will go again! It's an amazing country and you can see much more there if you speak their language.

Interviewer: Right!

Respondent: Chinese culture, art and music are very different from ours.

Interviewer: Can you play any traditional musical instruments?

Respondent: Do you mean the Chinese bamboo flute? No, but I play the piano - well enough. I took piano classes when I was at school and my teacher was very good. She taught me to feel and love music.

Interviewer: And what about sports? What do you do to keep fit?

Respondent: Hmm… I go jogging. I would like to go swimming but there's no swimming pool nearby, so I jog almost every evening.

Interviewer: Evening?

Respondent: Yes, I prefer jogging in the evening, not in the morning like most people do. I hate getting up early, and evenings are better for me.

Interviewer: I see. And one more question…

Задание 2 устной части

1. How many days a week do you go to school?
2. What subjects are you good at?
3. What sports facilities do you have in your school?
4. What after-school activities does your school offer?
5. What do you like most about your school?
6. What would you recommend to a student who wants to improve his or her school results?

Вариант 2

Text A

We are happy to say that our sports shop is celebrating the 10th anniversary of its opening and each customer will get a present today - a sports watch. If you like watersports, camping or cycling, a break-resistant watch is just what you need! If any consultation is needed, apply to our manager from The Tents and Sportswear Department. Meanwhile, I would like to draw your attention to the mountain bikes, which are now on sale. They are absolutely awesome! Don't miss out!

Text B

Hi, Sophie! Andrea here. Is your cold getting better? Look, you have to be well by Sunday because I've got two invitations for us to the opening ceremony of the new sports centre. On Sunday at 10 am. There'll be a lottery and the prizes are yearly tickets to the swimming pool. Imagine? You'll be able to swim every day for free! If you win, of course. And as for the concert on Sunday night – sorry, it was cancelled, so we are not going. Anyway, take care. See you on Sunday.

Text C

Sally: Hi, Alex!

Alex: Good to see you, Sally. I called yesterday but you didn't answer.

Sally: Oh, sorry! I didn't have my phone on me. When we got into the car to go to my grandma, I realized that I'd left it on the desk in my room but we were in such a hurry...

Alex: Oh, it's ok. I thought there was some technical problem. Like silent mode or flat batteries. It wasn't very important anyway.

Sally: No, the phone was ok but not next to me. And why did you call?

Alex: To remind you about our school orchestra's concert. It starts at noon.

Sally: Oh, yes! I remember. Can I take my cousin with me?

Alex: Sure.

Text D

Mark: Hi, Jess! Are we late?

Jess: No, Mark, it's ok but we need to hurry. It's maths, and Mr Smith hates it when anyone's late.

Mark: Yeah. I don't like maths, actually - too monotonous. But after that we've got science – it makes things better!

Jess: Yeah, you are good at science. Probably, the best in the class.

Mark: It's because I enjoy it most of all! Science explains how the world works. It's fantastic. Like magic!

Jess: Probably. I like neither maths nor science. I don't mind French, but grammar drills make me feel so bored.

Mark: Me too. By the way, have you finished that project in French?

Jess: Mmm, not yet.

Task 2

Presenter: Good afternoon. Today we have asked five people to give us a short interview and share their opinions about birthday parties. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A

I'm sure that birthday is a special day for any of us. Some people may like spontaneous parties, but I believe we should do our best to organize a great party on this day. It's necessary to think about everything beforehand – like making a list of guests and buying food and soft drinks and writing up a menu so that there is nothing there your guests are allergic to and thinking of entertainment or even small gifts for your guests.

Speaker B

In my opinion, when you invite guests to your birthday party, the most important thing to think about is definitely what will be on the table for your guests to eat. There must be a delicious birthday cake with cream, chocolate and maybe fruits and berries. It will impress your guests. There must be other dishes as well – maybe chicken or fish – and juices. Everything must be fresh and tasty – a catering service could definitely help you there.

Speaker C

As for me, I love surprise parties. They show you how much your friends and relatives care for you and love you. It's especially good when your birthday is on a usual workday and you don't actually plan anything in particular. Well, maybe a tasty cake from your parents. You enter the hall, and you see all your friends standing around, shouting "Happy Birthday!" The hall is decorated with balloons, and you didn't have any idea about it.

Speaker D

If you ask me, I think a really good birthday party must leave a lasting impression on people. Nobody gets excited about a party with cakes and clowns for entertainment. You can call a special agency and ask them to organize something special for you – a quest party, a fancy-dress ball or any theme party which will be a real treat for your guests. Now there are book or film-themed parties to which guests can dress as characters from a book or film they like.

Speaker E

I don't actually like inviting a lot of people to my birthday party and I try to avoid going to birthday parties if a lot of guests are expected. I think it's good when all the guests know each other at a birthday party. A limited circle makes it more comfortable for people to communicate and take part in the entertainment programme you have for them. It's not very pleasant to be at a party if you know nobody there and have nobody to talk to.

Task 3

Interviewer: Thank you for taking part in our survey. I really appreciate it.

Respondent: It's OK. I'm waiting for a friend, anyway. She's keen on photography and is buying some accessories for her camera at the moment. It may take her a long time.

Interviewer: Right. And as we are talking at the entrance to a fine arts exhibition, I guess, you are interested in arts, aren't you?

Respondent: Yes, I am. I love arts and I do some painting myself. Just as a hobby, not professionally.

Interviewer: You need to see Italy then. There are lots of places for art lovers there.

Respondent: Oh, yes! Italy is on my travel list. We were going to fly there last winter but I had to go to Finland instead, on a business trip.

Interviewer: Sorry to hear this.

Respondent: Never mind, it's ok. I'm going to Rome this June anyway. I'm even planning to hire a private guide to show me the most interesting places in the city.

Interviewer: Good! I guess you are a very busy person, aren't you? What do you do for a living?

Respondent: You mean what my job is, don't you? I'm a scientist. I don't think we should discuss it in detail. It's a specific sphere.

Interviewer: Right. Of course. You are a very young scientist, I should say.

Respondent: No, not really. I'm forty. To you, forty may sound like a very serious age.

Interviewer: But you look younger.

Respondent: Thank you.

Interviewer: Anyway, getting back to our survey… What's your favourite dish? Is it pizza? Or any other Italian cuisine?

Respondent: Right. It's Italian cuisine, but it's not pizza. It's pasta.

Interviewer: Pasta?

Respondent: Yes. With different sauces.

Interviewer: Right. And the last question is about recreation activities. Do you play any sports? Tennis, probably?

Respondent: Right, I find sports absolutely necessary to stay healthy. Physically and mentally. But it isn't tennis. I prefer team sports. I play basketball with my colleagues at least twice a week.

Interviewer: Basketball?

Respondent: Yes. I may not be tall enough for the game but I'm a good player, actually.

Interviewer: I'm sure you are. Thank you for your time.

1. How old are you?
2. In what season do you have your birthday?
3. How do you usually celebrate your birthday?
4. What is the best birthday present you have ever had?
5. What other holidays and special days are celebrated in your family?
6. What, from your point of view, is the best birthday present for a teenager?

Task 1

Text A

Dear guests! We are happy to welcome you to our hotel. This year we've got a surprise for you which is going to be particularly interesting for families with children. Now, along with splashing in the pool and seeing the aquarium with tropical fish, our young guests can visit the place where we grow fruit and vegetables for our restaurant. Right behind our building, there's a territory with a garden and an enclosure with hens, ducks, rabbits and even a couple of goats.

Text B

Hi, Jane! It's Amanda. I'm calling to say that we had to change the date of my birthday party. In the invitation, it's written as the 14th of October, which is Saturday, but the weather forecast says it'll be raining the whole day. Not very good for a garden party, is it? That's why we've moved it to Sunday which promises to be a warm and sunny day. The time is the same - 2pm. Call me on Friday evening to confirm that you're coming. See you on Sunday!

Text C

Seller: Hello, can I help you?

Man: Yes, I need to buy a present for my nephew.

Seller: How old is he? And what's he interested in?

Man: He is nine. Like most boys, he likes playing with his dog, assembling Lego, drawing, lots of other things.

Seller: How about a book about searching for a lost castle?

Man: Sounds good but I gave him a book for Christmas and he wasn't very impressed. Any other ideas?

Seller: Well, you mentioned Lego or a skateboard!

Man: He has already got both.

Seller: Then I would recommend this big set of paints.

Man: Oh, I think this one would do. I'm sure he'll like it. Where can I pay?

Text D

James: Hi, Kate!

Kate: Oh, sorry, James. What did you say? I didn't hear you.

James: Of course. Because you were wearing your headphones. What did you listen to?

Kate: My Spanish course.

James: Cool. Your new hobby? It's a shame I can't speak any foreign languages. My brother is learning French. He even tries to write poems in French.

Kate: There's nothing to be ashamed of. Some people enjoy learning languages, others are good at other things. As for you - you've got a great talent for roller skating!

James: I won't argue. I won the first prize in the City Rollers' competition, by the way.

Kate: Congratulations!

Task 2

Presenter: Good afternoon. Today we have asked five people to give the short interview and share their opinions about life in big cities. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A

Of course, big cities can't boast many parks or fresh and clean air, but life in a big city is certainly exciting. You can watch new blockbusters or attend theatre performances or concerts of the best musicians. Big cities have many museums, concert halls and whatnot. I also enjoy the hustle and bustle of a big city– people walking fast along the streets, cars moving and beeping, it's really fun.

Speaker B

I live in a big city, but I wish I could move to the countryside. My parents have good jobs here, but they are also dreaming of going freelance and living in the country. You see, the air is very polluted in my city and the tap water is not drinkable either and it's hard to find a place to go for a walk, which is certainly bad for health. We need to find a way out as long as we haven't developed any illnesses yet, I think.

Speaker C

On the one hand, big city life is interesting, but on the other hand, big cities are very noisy. You can hear loud sounds from cars moving along the streets, even at night, and you can easily get irritated because of it. The fast lifestyle many of you live when you're always in a hurry also makes you feel annoyed and tired. You get nervous and worried, which is certainly not very good for you. Being in a bad mood all the time because of the noise leads to anxiety and stress.

Speaker D

I do understand that life in a big city has a lot of minuses, like bad ecology or a lot of stress, but to be perfectly frank, I wouldn't like to live anywhere else. I don't think that the countryside can offer many employment opportunities. There are few workplaces there and the salaries are much lower than in big cities. I think that's why many people prefer to stay in a big city rather than move to the country.

Speaker E

Of course, big cities offer better schools and jobs and more chances to attend concerts and theatre plays, but I still find life in a big city uninteresting and monotonous. It's the same all the year round. The colours around don't change; it's the same routine every morning and every evening. You go on the same buses, all people in the street look grey, dull and busy. Being busy doesn't mean life's exciting. I'd actually prefer to have more fun.

Task 3

Interviewer: First of all, I would like to thank you for taking part in our survey. We're doing it as a part of our university course. It won't take you long, I promise.

Respondent: Oh, that's fine. I've got time and I'm happy to help you with your project. Do you need my name and age?

Interviewer: Only your age.

Respondent: OK. I'm sixty.

Interviewer: Sixty? You don't look it!

Respondent: Thank you.

Interviewer: What do you do to keep so fit? Any special gymnastics?

Respondent: No. But I've been playing tennis since childhood. And still do it once or twice a week. It helps me to be in shape.

Interviewer: Any special food? What is the basis of your diet?

Respondent: Vegetables. I eat lots of them. There's no need to explain how good vegetables are for the body and mind. And of course, I try to avoid junk foods and meat. I'm from India and we have traditions of cooking vegetables there. My wife is a professional cook, by the way. She cooks very well!

Interviewer: Lucky you! So, you were born in India, weren't you? Did you leave India long ago?

Respondent: Yes. I went to university in the United States to be an engineer and, since graduation, have been travelling a lot.

Interviewer: Because of your job?

Respondent: Yes. Companies from different countries still employ me. Good engineers are always needed.

Interviewer: That's true. It's one of the most important professions in the world.

Respondent: There are lots of others, equally important, to be fair. Every person considers their job important. I'm sure you feel the same about your future career.

Interviewer: Sure. Yes, I really do. And getting back to the survey… one more question - what do you do in your free time?

Respondent: I used to play computer games when I was younger. But now I don't. It's not very good for my eyes, at least my doctor says so. Now I go fishing whenever I have an opportunity. But I don't have much time for this hobby yet. I'll be going fishing much more often when I'm retired. And I'll probably join the Fishermen's Club.

Interviewer: Thank you for your time, but I've got a few more questions if you don't mind...

1. What do you enjoy doing in your free time?
2. How often do you go to the cinema or to the theater?
3. How much time do you usually watch TV every day?
4. What TV programmes are popular in your family?
5. Do you prefer TV or the Internet? Why?
6. What TV programme would you recommend your friends watch?

Task 1

Text A. Dear all, my name's Linda and I'm going to be your guide on this excursion. There're twelve people in today's group. Our driver, Jeff, is in his place too. So, we are ready to go. Before we set off I want to give you these boxes with your lunch. Our excursion lasts four hours. We've packed some food for you, so that you won't feel hungry. I also have to remind you about safety rules. Your bags should be placed on the shelves above your head and your safety belt should be fastened.

Text B. Hi, Tom. It's Bob. Look, you know that we are rehearsing a play for our Christmas concert. The thing is that one of my classmates, who was supposed to play the part of a street musician, has got sick. Could you be the street musician instead of him? Please, don't worry, you won't have to memorize anything. You'll just have to sit at the back of the stage playing your guitar. I really don't know anyone else who could play the guitar so well. Waiting for your call.

Text C.

Mum: What are you reading, Jeff? Is it for your Science exam?

Jeff: No, mum. Don't worry. I'll pass the exam. Science is easy. All you need is to understand the logics.

Mum: When I was at school, Science was difficult for me, though I loved it.

Jeff: You were top of the class in languages, and I'm hopeless at French. I've got the lowest grades. The grammar is messy and illogical.

Mum: It's complicated, right? But not messy. You need to read more in French and you'll like it.

Jeff: Probably. I've got an A in Computer Technology, by the way.

Mum: Well done! You always get As in it! Your teacher says you've got a gift for computers.

Text D.

Ben: Any plans for tomorrow, Sue? I'm going to the swimming pool. How about joining me?

Sue: No, Ben, thank you. I've got a cold and the swimming pool is the last place I would like to go to.

Ben: Oh, sorry! I didn't know. Probably, you should see the doctor tomorrow.

Sue: No, no need. It's not that serious. I just feel like staying at home tomorrow, watching a film, having tea with lemon. Just a lazy day.

Ben: Sounds tempting. Especially in weather like this. It's absolutely freezing outside and will be worse tomorrow.

Sue: How about joining me?

Ben: Sorry, I can't miss my training session whatever the weather is like.

Task 2

Presenter:

Good afternoon. Today we have asked five people to give us a short interview and share their opinions about coffee. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A. If you ask me, well, I can't imagine my morning without a cup of strong coffee. It gives me the strength to get up. And even the smell of fresh coffee can improve my mood significantly. It gives me the drive for the entire day. I know some people consider drinking coffee unhealthy but, in my opinion, one cup will do me no harm, I believe. On the contrary, after a cup of good coffee I feel I have enough power to change the world for the better.

Speaker B. I love coffee. When I shop for food, I always go to a small coffee stall in the supermarket and smell all the kinds of coffee that one can find there. There's coffee with chocolate, coffee with different fruits, coffee with anything. There's also green coffee and exotic expensive kinds of coffee as well. I would like to try all kinds of coffee, which they sell there, because they have coffee for any weather or occasion.

Speaker C. Coffee is incredibly tasty and may be a good source of energy in the morning, but I don't drink it. I've read that coffee makes your blood pressure high and can give you a strong headache. It can also cause problems with your stomach and some other illnesses as well. So, a cup of coffee in the morning is certainly tempting but, still, no, thank you. I avoid drinking coffee because I take care of my health, besides coffee is very expensive.

Speaker D. I don't know why many people think coffee is unhealthy. Well, anything can be unhealthy if you eat or drink too much of it. Even fruits and vegetables can do you harm. However, doctors say that drinking coffee is actually good for you as it improves your mood and stimulates your body. They also believe that a cup of coffee a day helps prevent heart problems. That's a good reason to drink coffee in reasonable quantities.

Speaker E. I love coffee. Of course, I understand that drinking coffee has both pluses and minuses and can influence our body in different ways. Still, I think one cup of coffee in the morning is a must. But it must be really good coffee, which is certainly not cheap. High-quality coffee costs a fortune and must be bought in special shops, not in supermarkets. Various coffee flavours are nice, but flavours add to the cost of coffee itself as well.

Task 3

Interviewer: Thank you for taking part in our survey! I promise it won't take you long.

Respondent: It's okay, I've got time. I'm waiting for my truck to be loaded and then I will set off.

Interviewer: Do you drive a truck?

Respondent: Yes, I'm a professional driver. And I've driven different vehicles from taxies to trucks.

Interviewer: It must be an interesting job, though a difficult one.

Respondent: Right! My parents wanted me to be an accountant but I chose driving and I have never regretted my choice. You'll never believe how many countries I've seen.

Interviewer: And how many countries have you been to?

Respondent: Hmm… Let me count. Thirty. Yes, thirty.

Interviewer: It's impressive.

Respondent: Yeah, I love being on the move, meeting new people, talking with them.

Interviewer: As you work internationally, do you speak any foreign languages? Spanish, probably? Or German?

Respondent: Neither of them, only French. I learned it at school and now practise it when I'm in the French-speaking countries. Foreign languages are not as important for my job as they may seem. People speak English almost everywhere, so there's no need to be a polyglot.

Interviewer: I see. And did you go to school in Britain?

Respondent: Yes, in Oxford. My native city. I was born there and went to school there. I enjoyed living in Oxford but when I finished school, we moved to Manchester. I'm a Manchester United fan, of course.

Interviewer: I'm their fan too. And is it difficult to be on the move all the time? Do you always have proper meals?

Respondent: Yeah, sure. We need to eat proper food to be healthy. And we have medical check-ups very often. It's believed that drivers drink lots of coffee.

Interviewer: Isn't that true?

Respondent: No, it isn't. My favourite drink, for example, is juice. I've always got a few cartons of juice in the portable fridge.

Interviewer: And what about exercising?

Respondent: Sure. I go swimming. I find it the most effective way to relax after a long drive. I used to play rugby but I was at school when I last played it.

Interviewer: Right! And a few more questions if you do not mind.

1. How old are you?
2. What is your favourite day of the week? Why do you like it?
3. When do you usually get up at weekends?
4. How do you usually spend your weekends?
5. What sport or hobby do you think you might like to try in the future?
6. What would you recommend to a student who wants to make his or her weekends more interesting?

Mike: Are you OK, Helen? You look tired.

Helen: Oh, Mike! I feel exhausted. The test was difficult.

Mike: I don't think so. Some tasks were very easy.

Helen: For you, not for me. All those equations and calculations are beyond my understanding. And they have nothing to do with real life.

Mike: I can't agree. I think Maths is very practical. The world around us exists due to mathematics laws.

Helen: OK. I don't want to argue but I prefer ten tests in Science to one in Maths. History is awful, too. I can never remember all those dates.

Mike: I know Science is your favourite but we can't take tests only in our favourite subjects.

Ann: What's up Nick? Why is your little brother crying? Has he hurt himself? Have you broken his toy again?

Nick: No, he's alright as well as his toys. He just wants to play with his cars with me.

Ann: Why don't you play with him then?

Nick: Look, Ann, we played with these cars in the morning and yesterday, and the day before yesterday. I'm sick and tired of his toys. He's got a garage with toy cars and mum keeps buying them again and again.

Ann: But he's little and so cute! It's normal he enjoys playing with his older brother, isn't it?

Nick: OK, I'll let you play with him for a change. You're his older cousin. Go on, go on! Show me how to do this!

Task 2

Presenter: Good afternoon. Today we have asked five people to give us a short interview and share their opinions about school uniforms. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A

My parents often say it's good to have school uniforms but I don't agree with them. I think school uniforms make us all look the same. They often come in dull colours like dark blue or dark green which are not exactly the colours which teenagers like to wear or find attractive. Modern teenagers need a chance to express themselves, wearing the clothes they really like, not those monotonous colours and styles all the time.

Speaker B

In my opinion, school uniforms might be a nice thing. They don't look boring but it would be nice if they made it from different materials. I don't know why but the material for school uniforms is just horrible. In some weather you feel too hot in it. In some times you feel too cold. Uniforms also wrinkle easily, which makes pupils feel bad. Skirts are also not the best idea for girls. I think trousers are more practical and make girls feel confident.

Speaker C

I think it's a really good idea that students look the same in their school uniforms. Some people may find it boring. Let me look at the issue from a different standpoint. I don't have to think what to put on in the morning, I worry if I look cool enough comparing with my classmates. Before our school introduced the uniform it used to take me ages to pick an outfit in the morning. It's actually very convenient though uniforms are not always attractive.

Speaker D

My parents think that buying a school uniform is a sheer waste of money. Well, it may look nice and be practical but let's face it. It costs money. If not for the school uniform, I'll be wearing jeans with shirts or T-shirts to school, these items of clothes have to be bought anyway, unlike uniform. Uniform isn't cheap. And as kids grow really fast, you need to spend extra money every year. It would be better without school uniforms.

Speaker E

Some of my classmates think that school uniforms prevent them from wearing what they want and they look bad in them. But I think school uniforms are so nice looking. It looks great when all the girls and boys in the class wear the same colours. Besides, the colours selected for school uniforms are always elegant and attractive and suit most youngsters. School uniforms are stylish and many students of good schools are happy and proud to wear their uniforms.

Task 3

Interviewer: Excuse me! Do you mind if I ask you a few questions. It's for a survey which we're doing for our university course.

Respondent: Ah, go ahead! It'll be fun because normally it's me, who ask people questions whether they mind it or not.

Interviewer: Pardon me?

Respondent: I'm a policeman and it's part of my job to ask people questions.

Interviewer: I'm sorry to have bothered you.

Respondent: Chill out, I'm not on duty. It's my day off and I'm going to the parking lot to see a friend. He's a taxi driver. But that can wait. I really don't mind answering your questions. What information do you need for your survey? What do I have for dinner?

Interviewer: Yes! How did you know? There's really a point about your favourite food in our survey.

Respondent: For me it's chicken. I like chicken with rice or potatoes. My wife cooks it really well. She prefers vegetables herself and practically doesn't eat any meat.

Interviewer: I see, sir. And do you play any sports?

Respondent: Sure. I need to be in a good shape. Otherwise, I won't meet my job requirements. Athletics. That's what I do. It develops all the muscles. I used to play football when I was younger but now I don't.

Interviewer: So, you do athletics?

Respondent: Right. And I'm still very good at it. Better than some of my young colleagues in spite of my age.

Interviewer: And what's your age?

Respondent: Fifty. Yeah, I was born fifty years ago. It's difficult to believe that it was so long ago.

Interviewer: And where were you born?

Respondent: Can't you see it, buddy? In Ireland, of course. Where else can you see people with hair as red as mine? My wife is from Poland, but when I retire we're planning to settle down in Ireland. My wife doesn't mind it.

Interviewer: And what's your hobby?

Respondent: My hobby? You'll never believe what I do when I have free time!

Interviewer: What is it?

Respondent: You probably expect some extreme hobby like hunting or horse-riding. Nothing of a kind. I love gardening and that's what I'm going to do till the end of my life. No, I'm not kidding. You can see my garden if you'd like. It's the best in our neighbourhood.

1. How many classes do you usually have a day?
2. What sports facilities do you have in your school?
3. What clubs and societies can you attend in your school?
4. What school events like concerts and performances do you usually have during the school year?
5. Do you enjoy taking part in these school events? Why?
6. What event would you recommend organizing in your school and why?

Alex: Carol! It's nice to see you again!

Carol: I heard you've been to Australia, haven't you?

Alex: Yes, I lived there with my parents for six months.

Carol: Sounds like a long trip! Were you parents working there?

Alex: Yes, they still do. Dad signed a two-year contract with a construction company in Melbourne. Mum decided to stay there, too.

Carol: And you? Are you planning to live here or to go back to Australia?

Alex: I have to stay here in England with my aunt's family. I'd like to complete my school education here and go to university in Britain. Construction engineering, like dad.

Joanna: Hey, Tim! I've been looking for you!

Tim: Oh, Joanna! What happened?

Joanna: Nothing! I've been trying to contact you since yesterday, but you never answer. Is your phone switched off or have you blocked me?

Tim: Oh, no, certainly not. I've just got a new phone number. Sorry I did not tell you.

Joanna: Why, what happened?

Tim: I lost my phone, I must have left it somewhere. So I had to buy a new one together with the sim-card. Just a minute. I'll call you and you'll get my number. And why did you call?

Joanna: Mia and I are going on a picnic this Sunday. Care to join us?

Tim: Sure. Sounds like fun.

Task 2

Presenter: Good afternoon. Today we have asked five people to give a short interview and share their opinions about being an only child. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A

My friends often say that I'm lucky to be the only child in the family because I get all the attention of my parents. Well, I can see their point but I've always wanted to have a sister or a brother because it's not always interesting to play alone and to have some company for games would be really nice. It's so much fun having more children in the family when they can play with each other, and be good friends, and enjoy each other's company.

Speaker B

When I was a child, I could have any toy I wanted because I had no brothers or sisters, so my parents didn't have to save money. I was a centre of attention for my parents and I loved it. It's still the same. I don't think it's boring to be an only child. In fact, it's a great experience and gives to a child a sense of self-confidence and good self-esteem. I love the fact that I'm the most important person for my parents and it'll always be like that.

Speaker C

I think being an only child teaches you a lot of things about life. First of all, you have nobody to play with, so you learn very quickly how to spend your free time alone without feeling bored. Besides, you have to do a lot of things on your own or learn things yourself by trial and error. Often it means you spend much time reading and drawing, which is very good for self-development. Secondly, you build your character this way.

Speaker D

In my opinion, being an only child is not the best thing which can happen to you. Most of my friends have brothers and sisters but I'm the only child. And I find it hard to share things with anybody, or make friends, or start a conversation. I can't say I feel bored without brothers or sisters but I do feel I lack some communication skills. There are many other disadvantages about being an only child as well. It's not enjoyable at all.

Speaker E

I'm the only child in the family and I find it really hard not because I have nobody to play with but because my parents expect too much. I have to do my best to study well, and my marks, and my behaviour must be perfect. My parents worry too much about me and it's not bad maybe but it's certainly not easy to be what your parents want you to be. It's hard to live like that and always be perfect. My friends feel more comfortable with siblings.

Task 3

Interviewer: I would like to thank you for taking part in our survey.

Respondent: Oh, it's ok. We often carry out different surveys at school.

Interviewer: Do you go to school? What year are you in?

Respondent: I'm in Year eleven, unfortunately.

Interviewer: Why unfortunately? Is it because you don't like the number '11'? Or because you have to take your exams this year?

Respondent: The latter. I have to take Science, a great problem for me.

Interviewer: When I was at school, I had problems with Maths and with PE.

Respondent: PE? The best subject ever. We always play basketball in PE and I'm a captain of our basketball team.

Interviewer: Impressive! Do you do any other sport?

Respondent: No. We've got different clubs at school. Football, tennis and others but to get results you need to focus on one thing. For me it's basketball. I have no time for anything else. We practise five times a week, including Saturday and Sunday. I can only relax on Wednesdays when we do not train and don't have classes at school either.

Interviewer: What do you do on your day off?

Respondent: Practically nothing. I plan my week to leave Wednesday free. Our coach says it's important to change the type of activity. I just listen to music and hang around with friends.

Interviewer: Who encourages you to take sport so seriously?

Respondent: My cousin. He's always been a sort of a role model for me. He speaks two foreign languages by the way, Italian and Spanish.

Interviewer: And you? What foreign languages do you speak?

Respondent: Only German. But I speak it almost fluently.

Interviewer: OK. German is a difficult language but, getting back to your cousin, do you spend lots of time together?

Respondent: Not really. We both are very busy. He goes to college and as a sport he goes mountain biking.

Interviewer: Do you go mountain biking with him? On holiday, for instance?

Respondent: No, it's too extreme but we go fishing on holiday. We both enjoy it.

Interviewer: Great! Any other holiday activities? Like sunbathing, for example? Or boating?

Respondent: Boating? No. We only use a boat when we go fishing.

Interviewer: I see. And one more question if you don't mind…

1. How many days a week do you go to school?
2. When do you go to bed in the evening?
3. How do you spend your mornings?
4. What means of transport do you use to get to school?
5. What do you usually have for lunch?
6. What would you recommend to a teenager who wants to stay fit and healthy?

Brother: I believe this fishing rod is just what grandpa wants. Don't you think so?

Sister: I'm not sure. He enjoys fishing, right, but grandma worries so much that he might catch a cold when he goes to the lakes and so do I. You know how careless grandpa can be.

Brother: Yes, things like nasty weather, cold and rain can never stop him from going fishing. One day he got home absolutely frozen. His coat and sweater were wet through.

Sister: It seems to me I know what to buy to please both grandpa and grandma! A pair of long warm rubber boots for fishermen.

Brother: Good idea! The boots grandpa wears are not really waterproof. He needs better ones.

Kate Hi, Ron! I called you on Sunday but you didn't answer. Were you out of town?

Ron: Yes, we went to the city for a brief entertaining trip, as mum called it.

Kate: Wow! Was it fun?

Ron: Absolutely not. I had plans to see the motoraces, they've just built a new mototrack, and you know how much I love motorbike competitions but my sister spoilt a whole day.

Kate: How could she? She is a sweet little girl.

Ron: She is, but she wanted to go to the zoo. Mum could not disappoint her.

Kate: I'm so sorry, but it's not the worst scenario ever. When we went for a holiday last time, I got a cold and spent six days inside in the hotel room.

Task 2

Presenter: Good afternoon! Today we have asked five people to give us a short interview and share their opinions about their schools. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A. My high school in Germany is not big at all. Actually, only about a thousand people. The good thing is that we are all very united. You see, in a German high school, there are students from ten years old to twenty years old and sometimes there can be bullying. Fortunately, that is not our case. We get along well. The older students are very kind and help the younger ones. I believe we are lucky to study in such a family environment.

Speaker B. My high school is in the very centre of our town and children from different cultural backgrounds go there. Half of the students are Spanish, but also there are many people from Asian countries, especially China and Korea. We also have students from Latin America and Russia. I really enjoy being part of that diverse community. Our cultures and backgrounds are different, but we are learning to respect each other and I truly believe it's a great experience!

Speaker C. My high school has a very good reputation in our town and it deserves it. All my classmates are very motivated and focused on studying. It's difficult to learn in this environment because you have to keep up with your classmates – nobody wants to look like a loser. It's also exciting, it feels like a race. But we do help each other. We've got special classes where students of the same year help each other with the most difficult matters.

Speaker D. I live in the centre of the city. Fortunately, my school is nearby and I spend lots of time there. I mean I go there not only to learn, but also to do sports and other recreational activities. The school is really well-equipped. We have two gyms: one for games like football and volleyball, the other for gymnastics and acrobatics. There's also a swimming pool. It's not large, but it's fine anyway. And there's an open-air sports ground, which I particularly enjoy.

Speaker E. I've changed school recently and though I still have many friends in my former school, I like my new one very much. It's located in an old three-storey building. The first thing that impressed me was that the school looks very traditional from the outside and very modern inside. The classrooms are light and spacious, the corridors and lobbies are large and arranged in a high-tech style. There's even a winter garden on the upper floor of the building.

Task 3

Interviewer: Do you mind taking part in our survey? We are doing it as a part of our university course. It won't take you long.

Respondent: No, I don't mind. It looks like I've got lots of time anyway.

Interviewer: Oh. What's wrong with your bicycle? Do you need help?

Respondent: No, thanks. It's just a flat tire and I'm waiting for my friend to bring a pump so that we can fix it. My sister took mine to pump the ball for their volleyball game and didn't bring it back to me.

Interviewer: I understand you do cycling quite often?

Respondent: Yes, I like it. It helps me keep fit.

Interviewer: Do you think people should use bicycles as a means of transport more often? Instead of cars, buses and trains?

Respondent: I wouldn't put it like that. The bicycle is ideal for a ride in the countryside, but you can't use it when you travel long distances.

Interviewer: And what means of transport do you prefer for travelling?

Respondent: The plane, of course. It's fast and comfortable. I always choose the plane for travelling.

Interviewer: Right. And you are still at school, aren't you?

Respondent: Yes, I am.

Interviewer: What subject do you like most of all? Is it Mathematics or Languages?

Respondent: Neither of them. It's History. It's fascinating to learn about the past.

Interviewer: Yes?

Respondent: And... I was born in Scotland where history is in the air.

Interviewer: Oh, yeah! I've been to Scotland - it's an amazing country. Do you play the… I don't remember the name of their traditional musical instrument...

Respondent: The bagpipes? No. I play the guitar and that is all. I'd like to learn to play the piano too but cannot find time for it.

Interviewer: The guitar is great! What else do you do? I mean as a hobby. Some people of your age enjoy collecting magnets or assembling Lego.

Respondent: No, I'm not interested in that stuff. I do some blogging. It's my latest hobby. My blog is about the legends of Scotland.

Interviewer: Have you got any followers as a blogger?

Respondent: Ninety at the moment. I hope there'll be more.

Interviewer: Ninety followers is a very good start for a person who is new to blogging. I wish you success!

Probably, you remember that 7 years ago our entertainment centre was, in fact, an indoor playground for very small kids. By now, those toddlers have turned into teenagers, who still often come to spend their free time with us, enjoying our creative activities. And we are still growing! Starting from now, we are removing any age restrictions in our club as there's lots of room and entertainment for people of any age and with any interests. There's also a Bingo and board games club!

Hi, Dad! I'm so sorry, it looks like I'm going to be late for Granny's birthday. You know, right after our excursion to the historical museum I was going to Granny's house. My timing was perfect! But ... A group of Japanese tourists had got lost and asked me how to get to the railway station and while I was explaining the way to them, it started to rain and I got wet to the bone. I had to go home to change my clothes. I'm at home at the moment and heading to Grandma. See you there.

Jill: Hi, Ben! Sorry, I missed your call.

Ben: Hi, Jill! I just wanted to remind you about the book you promised to lend me.

Jill: Oh, I'm sorry, I forgot about it. Yesterday I was at the theatre with my cousin and it was such a rush! She had got last-minute tickets and...

Ben: No need to feel sorry. Did you enjoy the show?

Jill: It was wonderful! Look, I'm going to the fitness centre in an hour or so. I can take the book with me. Let's meet up on the way there. At the bus stop, is that OK?

Ben: A bus stop? Well… I'll be at the fitness centre today too. Let's meet up right there.

Jill: Perfect. You can find me in the aerobics class from 4 to 5 pm.

Text D.

Ken: Hi, Sue! Are you shopping for sportswear?

Sue: Yes. I've bought a tracksuit for myself and a couple of tennis shirts for my brother. He's taking part in a tournament soon but his old shirts are too small already. And what have you bought? Is it a glove for boxing?

Ken: No! I did some boxing years ago but that sport is not for me.

Sue: It looks cruel to me though some people find it exciting.

Ken: Right.

Sue: And what's the glove for then?

Ken: It's a baseball glove. I've joined our school baseball team.

Sue: Congrats!

Ken: Too early. I'm just a beginner in this game. My first training session is tomorrow and I'm feeling nervous.

Task 2

Presenter: Good afternoon. Today we have asked 5 people to give us a short interview and share their opinions about homemade food and cooking at home. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A. I've always enjoyed homemade dishes and I want my family to eat tasty and healthy food. To me, cooking is an art and I always follow the same rules when I cook. First, I turn on my favourite music. Then I prepare all the ingredients I need to make the dish and display them on the table. After that, I start cooking and I hate being interrupted by telephone calls. When the dish is ready, I always decorate it with pieces of vegetables or dried fruit - depending on the dish.

Speaker B. I love cooking with mum. We talk and laugh a lot together. We're spending quality time together: catch up on each other's lives, share stories and create lasting memories. Trying out new recipes and experimenting with different flavours can be an exciting adventure. Cooking family recipes, passed down from generations, helps preserve cultural traditions and create a sense of belonging. It allows younger family members to connect with their heritage and appreciate their roots.

Speaker C. I don't like hamburgers, hot dogs or chips much. And I strongly believe that soups, salads, chops and vegetables are always much better at home than in a café or a cafeteria. When you cook for yourself, you can be sure that the ingredients you use are fresh. Another good thing is that you can add as much salt, pepper or sugar as you want, to your taste, not to the taste of other people. Besides, it's just cheaper and always much tastier. Personally, I just love it!

Speaker D. Fast food is unhealthy, we all know that. It contains lots of fats, sugar and too many calories. But there is sugar in lots of other foods we eat every day. And in most cases, we don't realize how much sugar these dishes have. Take fruit yogurt, for example, even a fat free one. You may be shocked at the amount of sugar it has. So, cooking proper dishes at home is always the best choice. Besides, you don't feel hungry after a good meal.

Speaker E. I don't like cooking at home as it takes too much time and effort. With the right restaurant, everyone with their eating restrictions can choose from the many options a menu has to offer. At home, it is hard to please everyone with food, and in a restaurant, the pressure is taken off you and you can enjoy each other's company instead. Besides, I believe eating out gives a welcome change to female members of any family because cooking every day can be hard and boring.

Task 3

Interviewer: Do you mind answering a few questions? It's for a survey we are doing.

Respondent: No problem. Ask your questions.

Interviewer: In fact, one of my questions is about pets, but it looks like there's no need to ask it. The dog is your pet, isn't it?

Respondent: Yes. I adopted him when he was a small puppy. Now he's a big dog. He's friendly, don't be afraid of him.

Interviewer: I'm not afraid but still… You know, I've never had any pets except for goldfish. Anyway, my next question is whether you've already chosen your future career or not.

Respondent: Not yet. In fact, I've always wanted to be a pilot. It's been my dream since childhood.

Interviewer: And?

Respondent: It's very unlikely that it will ever come true. I've got a problem with my eyes. I'm short sighted and a pilot should have perfect health. Now, my parents want me to be a lawyer but I'm not sure I want to study law.

Interviewer: Oh, yes. I understand.

Respondent: I've probably got a health problem because I usually spend too much time on my computer and other gadgets.

Interviewer: How many hours, on average, do you spend online per week?

Respondent: Fifteen. Yes, I think fifteen on average. The doctor says I shouldn't make it any more.

Interviewer: I see. And do you speak any foreign languages?

Respondent: I speak Russian but not very fluently yet.

Interviewer: Russian? But why? It's a difficult language. Most people choose Spanish or Italian.

Respondent: Oh, yes, it's not easy. I chose it because I'm interested in Russian literature and culture.

Interviewer: And Russian food? People say there are some very unusual dishes in Russian cuisine, like pelmeni or something.

Respondent: I'm not an expert in Russian food, but my favourite food is fish. I can even cook fish myself.

Interviewer: Oh, I see. And sports? Do you play any?

Respondent: Of course. I go skateboarding with friends. There are skateboarding facilities in front of our block and we've got plenty of opportunity to practise. My dad promised to teach me windsurfing next summer. But I need to learn to swim first.

Interviewer: Thank you for your time. But I have a few more questions if you don't mind…

1. How much free time do you have on weekdays?
2. How do you and your friends usually spend your free time?
3. Who do you prefer to spend your free time with?
4. What after-school activities do you take part in?

5. Do you think everyone should find some time for doing sports? Why?
6. What hobby would you do if you had more free time?

Dear guests! Welcome to the bear area in our zoo. The good news is that a week ago a new baby bear was born. His mum had arrived from a Canadian Zoo and after the quarantine joined our family bears. The quarantine is a necessary procedure in such cases. The baby bear, whose name is Willy, is very cute. Unfortunately, the baby is out of sight now. He's in the cave with his mum fast asleep. Like all babies Willy sleeps most of the day.

Hi, Vicky! It's Paul. I'm calling to tell you about our schedule for tomorrow. There were a few changes while you're away. First of all, the Maths test is cancelled. Instead of that we're going to have Science. Ms. Adams reminded us that tomorrow we need to be ready with our presentations on chemical elements. In Science class she's going to see all of them. As for the essay about outstanding people, forget about it for a while. It's been put off to the next week. See you!

Jeff: Hi, Mia! You look great!

Mia: Hi, Jeff! Probably because it's my birthday today. I've turned fifteen!

Jeff: Many happy returns! Are you having a party tonight?

Mia: No, we've decided to throw it some time later. My exam session started two days ago, so I'm really busy now. No time for partying. In a fortnight when the holidays start I'll invite all my friends to a party. Will you come?

Jeff: Yes, if it is not at the weekend. I've already got plans for the weekends till the end of the month.

Mia: No, no, it's going to be on Thursday. Not Thursday next week but the Thursday after.

Jeff: Ok. I understand.

Harry: What are you doing this summer, Jess?

Jess: We haven't got any definite plans yet, Harry. We may go to my aunt's house. She lives in France.

Harry: Sounds great.

Jess: I love it too. But mum insists I'm going to Berlin. She wants me to practise German. I don't like the idea and my German is ok anyway.

Harry: Don't you like Germany?

Jess: I definitely prefer the French countryside to Germany or Britain and I've got cousins there. We usually have so much fun together.

Harry: And you can practise your French there, can't you?

Jess: Not really. My cousins are learning English and want me to speak English so that they can practise.

Task 2

Presenter: Good afternoon. Today we have asked five people to give us the short interview and share their opinions about spending time outdoors. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A

As for me, I think it's absolutely necessary to spend as much time outdoors as possible. My parents spend the biggest part of the day at their offices and I spend half a day at school, too. So, whenever we have a chance to breathe some fresh air, we do it. It could be a short picnic or a long hike. It doesn't really matter where we go. We feel refreshed and full of energy after a picnic at one of the local parks. I think everybody needs it.

Speaker B

When I can't go for a walk in the evening, I start getting a headache and I find it difficult to fall asleep. It's important for me to feel good, so I try to spend my weekends outdoors. We may go hiking with my parents or just have a picnic with my classmates where we play active games, which is also quite useful for staying fit. I feel best after a long walk. I have no headaches and feel as I had a good, proper training session in the gym.

Speaker C

I wish I could spend more time outdoors because I know it's good for me but I find it hard to find any time for it in my packed schedule. I have many classes at school and a lot of homework in the evening. Plus, I have dancing classes twice a week. So, I'm just too busy to go for a walk. It's practically impossible for me to do it regularly. I wish I had more free time, so that I could improve my health and my mood while walking.

Speaker D

I love spending time outdoors as I think it's one of the most exciting things to do. I love walking with my mum, watching beautiful trees and flowers. The colours of nature are incredibly beautiful. They are red, orange and golden in autumn and all kinds of green, pink, blue and white in summer. I also enjoy playing games with my friends outdoors. We can go skateboarding or roller-skating in a local park. It's so much fun, believe me.

Speaker E

I know many people say that they enjoy spending time outdoors, watching nature changing its colours. They find it necessary or useful. But as for me, I just find it so uninteresting. It's such a waste of time and so monotonous. The park is almost the same all the year round. There's nothing exciting there to see. I'd rather read a book at home instead of walking monotonously along the same routes, the same parks with the same people.

Task 3

Interviewer: Thank you for taking part in our survey.

Respondent: My pleasure. But I don't have more than ten minutes. My group is waiting for me. We're having a brief stop here.

Interviewer: Oh, you're a tourist, aren't you?

Respondent: Yes, I'm on a bus excursion in your city and I do really like your city, cosmopolitan and friendly. I've been to many places and I can compare.

Interviewer: How many countries have you visited so far?

Respondent: Twenty. Yes… Right… Twenty!

Interviewer: Oh, you are an experienced traveller. And where were you born?

Respondent: In Canada. In the north of Canada. Have you ever been there?

Interviewer: No, I've been to Alaska and to the USA, but I hope to see your country one day.

Respondent: You'd be welcomed. If you come, I'll take you to the best pizzeria in the country. No! The best in the world!

Interviewer: Looks like you like pizza!

Respondent: Who doesn't? It's my favourite dish. You can make it with any topping and it will always taste different. Pizza with ham, mushrooms, peppers. You can even make it sweet with pineapples or berries. It's healthy if you cook it properly. What I really hate is junk foods and all sorts of candies. They literally kill your teeth.

Interviewer: You're talking like my dentist.

Respondent: Because I am a dentist. And I've seen so many times how people ruin their teeth because they just don't care. Everyone should be educated on what to eat and how to cook.

Interviewer: Can you cook, by the way? And how often do you do it if ever?

Respondent: Of course, I can. Cooking is my hobby. I often invite friends and cook for them. They play 'Bingo' and enjoy my food, especially when I present an original national recipe from a country I've visited.

Interviewer: Sounds great!

Respondent: Right! I have to tell you that our guide is waving to me, which means I need to board the bus.

Interviewer: OK. The last question. What transport do you usually use when travelling?

Respondent: I love travelling by train. So relaxing! And I choose the train instead of the plane whenever it's possible. I'm sorry, I need to go.

Interviewer: Good luck with your trip!

1. How many Physical Education lessons a week do you have?
2. What sports facilities do you have at school?
3. What do you do in your Physical Education lessons?
4. What sports do you do regularly?
5. Do you think the winter is a good season for doing sports or not? Why?
6. What would you recommend to a teenager who wants to stay fit and healthy?

Task 1

Text A. Dear students, our language school offers different activities to make your stay here pleasant and exciting. Unfortunately, the swimming pool cannot be used for two more weeks until the renovation works are completed. However, you may take horse-riding lessons from 3 to 8 p.m. The horses are calm and well-trained. In fact, our horses are often used for the needs of the Children's Rehabilitation Center as a complement to their gymnastics and swimming activities.

Text B. Hi, Jeff! It’s Thomas. What’s the score? I’ve heard our team has won the first half. Is that true? I’m so sorry I can’t be with you at the moment. So unlucky that the football match and my swimming competition happen to be at the same time. I’m doing well, and my coaches are happy with the result, but our competition is not over yet. As soon as it is, I’ll rush to the stadium. Don’t know how long it will take me, the traffic is heavy. There may be traffic jams.

Text C.

Ann: Hello! Can I have a cup of green tea and a vanilla cake, please?

Man: A cup of green tea and a vanilla cake, right. Oh, sorry, there isn't any left, I'm afraid. We've got an apple pie and a chocolate cake.

Ann: Chocolate cake, then. Do you serve it with ice cream?

Man: Yes, with ice cream and walnuts.

Ann: Sounds delicious. Yes, I'll take it.

Man: Okay, green tea and a piece of chocolate cake.

Ann: Wait a moment, what was the other option you said?

Man: Apple pie with honey syrup.

Ann: Which I'm allergic to.

Man: Should I change the chocolate cake for an apple pie?

Ann: No, no. Leave it as it is.

Text D.

Happy birthday, Mia.

Jack! It's great you've come. You are the first guest. The others are coming.
Which means you've got time to see my present right now. Guess what it is. You recently said you would like to get this thing.
Oh, I wanted so many things. Is it a headphone set or ski glasses? Or a smart watch?
Very close. It’s one of those three things. You told me you are going for the ski holidays, didn’t you? Open the box.
Oh, the glasses! With high UV protection! Let me try them on!
Hah, they would be great with your ski suits and helmet but ridiculous with your smart dress.

Task 2

Presenter: Good afternoon. Today we have asked five people to give us a short interview and share their opinions about visiting museums. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A. When I have free time, I don't like staying at home. I enjoy visiting different interesting places and learning new things about history, art, science, or whatever. And I love going on excursions to museums. First of all, I can easily buy a ticket online and avoid the queues. Besides, many museums today offer interactive exhibitions, which are really amazing. I know that some of them offer 3D tours to their visitors. They really bring the past to life.

Speaker B. I'm not an art lover. And I prefer riding bikes or trekking to museums and excursions. However, last Saturday we had a very nice trip to a nearby town. I was amazed by its beauty and history. I had no idea there were so many historical places there. We went there by bus and, on the way, the guide told us some facts and amazing legends about the town. Then we visited the local history museum. I really didn't imagine that I would like it so much.

Speaker C. When our teacher announces an excursion to a museum, I try to escape it at all costs. I don't like museums. Probably because my mum is a tour guide. When I was little, I spent too much time in museums. Mum took me there every time she had an excursion. I was too little for fine art or historical artifacts. I wanted to play or ride a bike, but not to admire the exhibits. So now I find museums and excursions monotonous and uninteresting.

Speaker D. I think people should visit museums to gain knowledge in a particular sphere. You usually remember the things you see better than when you just read about them. For example, visiting the Egyptian Museum with its wonderful statues and pictures of pyramids, you can learn a lot of interesting facts about the country's ancient culture. This will definitely broaden your knowledge. When you visit a museum, you can gather the information you are interested in.

Speaker E. I enjoy visiting different museums, but the problem is that there are no museums or galleries in our little town. I'm not the only person living in a remote place. I suggest we arrange a global internet-based museum. All the existing museums would make virtual expositions and everyone would have access to whatever museum they wanted and could order virtual excursions for themselves. There would be no need to travel far.

Task 3

Interviewer: Thank you for taking part in our survey. I appreciate it.

Respondent: Oh, I find it amusing. Sounds like a game.

Interviewer: You are a school student, aren't you?

Respondent: Yes, but now we are on holidays.

Interviewer: Anyway, there's a question about your school. What subjects do you find the most difficult?

Respondent: Well, our art and design are the easiest and most pleasant, of course. And the most difficult one… I believe, is geography.

Interviewer: Why geography?

Respondent: Because I can never remember all those geographical names and where to look for them on the map. But when I travel and see places myself, I never forget their names afterwards.

Interviewer: Indeed. And what do you like to do when you travel?

Respondent: I like taking photos. Photography is my hobby, and I'm good at it.

Interviewer: And do you like reading?

Respondent: It's not my favorite pastime to be honest, but I can read very fast.

Interviewer: Really? How many books have you read this summer?

Well, do we count all of them? Thick and thin ones?

Interviewer: Yes.

Respondent: And that, I guess, eighteen.

Interviewer: Eighteen, unbelievable. And what languages do you speak?

Respondent: I speak Spanish. It's easy because my grandparents live in Spain, and I can practice when I visit them. I would like to enroll in a Japanese language course, but not now, sometime later.

Interviewer: I see. And sports? Do you play any?

Respondent: I play volleyball, if it counts.

Interviewer: Volleyball, certainly counts. It's an effective sports activity. I also played volleyball and football at school.

Respondent: My dad is a football fan, but I'm not. I don't support any club.

Interviewer: And we are a family of football fans. I remember that when I played for our local team, my whole family, including our dog, came to the stadium to support me.

Respondent: Did they?

Interviewer: Yes, but let's get back to our survey. Have you got any pets?

Respondent: No, I haven't. I would like to have a horse, but mom says it's an absolutely unrealistic idea. Never mind. I'll buy a horse myself when I grow up.

Interviewer: Thank you. One more question.

1. What is your favourite school subject?
2. What do you like to do in your free time?
3. What part-time job would you like to do during the school holidays, if any?
4. What career would you like to choose after finishing school? Why?
5. Do you think English will be useful for you in the future? In what way?
6. What would you recommend to a teenager who can’t choose a career?

Вариант 11

Text A.

Dear students! We are very glad that you've chosen our summer language school, and we'll do our best to make your time here pleasant and useful. Apart from English classes, which are held every day of the week, including Saturdays and Sundays, you can join our Spanish club. The Spanish Club welcomes you every Friday from 6 till 9 pm. Everyone can take part in these weekly sessions. Our teachers will arrange the activities in groups of different levels.

Text B. Hi, mum! I can't wait to tell you the news! Just listen! Your daughter Lucy Brown has won the Space Research Contest for schoolchildren and has been awarded first prize, which is a telescope! Now we will be able to enjoy the night sky from home! It's much more interesting than going to the planetarium. The telescope is not large. In fact, it's an amateur version. I saw the same one on a TV show on the educational channel. See you at home! We're celebrating today, aren't we?

Text C.

Ann: Do you like our town, Tim?

Tim: Yes, Ann. It's nice and quiet. Have you always lived here?

Ann: Yes, I have hardly ever left it. It's nice. You're right! Especially the orchard garden next to the river. I go there when I feel sad or happy.

Tim: Sounds like you really like it.

Ann: Yes, it's a special place for me.

Tim: Look, could you show me a bit of your town? I'd like to see the Old Tower in the centre.

Ann: It's a museum now, not really interesting.

Tim: Anyway, and the main pedestrian street with all its crafts shops. I'd like to buy some souvenirs there. And that wonderful orchard garden of yours, of course.

Text D.

Sam: Hi, Lucy! I didn't know you're back from holiday.

Lucy: Oh, Sam! We returned yesterday! Our flight was delayed by five hours! Can you imagine that?

Sam: Yes, I can. Delays and crowds in the airport are the reasons why we prefer cars to planes. We're going to the seaside on Friday by car, of course.

Lucy: Right! The cars are convenient in many ways!

Sam: We also need to take lots of luggage, including diving masks, flippers and my surfboard. The car will hold all of that.

Lucy: Looks like it's going to be a great holiday! Send me photos, will you? Now I need to be off for the train station! My granny is arriving on the 6 o'clock train.

Task 2

Presenter: Good afternoon. Today we have asked five people to give us a short interview and share their opinions about sport. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A. I'm not athletic at all though I used to go swimming. Now I just do it for fun and for exercise, and it seems boring to me as a spectator. However, if there's a football match on, here I am in front of the screen afraid to miss a minute of it. I don't play it but it doesn't really matter. I do my best not to miss a single match. Quite often, my friends and I go to the stadium to support Liverpool, my all-time favourite team. We always wear our red scarves and sing the team songs.

Speaker B. Swimming has been something that I have done all my life. And also, a bit of water polo and diving. All these are really good sports! However, now I'd like to do something more exciting that I haven't done before. And surfing is at the top of my list. It's quite challenging, I know. I'll need to learn a lot and it's not going to be easy like anything you do for the first time, but I'm ready to have a goal. If you want to do something very much, I think you should try it.

Speaker C. I've been playing football and volleyball since high school. I used to be very shy and reserved but these games helped to greatly improve my social skills. The thing is when playing together, you have to interact and get along with other members of the group. Everybody wants to win, so all members have to cooperate with one another to achieve the common goal of winning. That is something that you cannot learn from an individual sport.

Speaker D. I first tried diving only a year ago, but now I'm really into it. It's amazing to experience the underwater world, so different from ours and truly wonderful. Diving looks simple, however, it's not as easy and safe as it looks. The sudden loss of oxygen is probably the biggest threat. It's also dangerous to rise quickly to the surface or just dive in an unfamiliar place. However, with proper precautions diving can open up a whole new world far from the stresses of daily life.

Speaker E. I reckon all athletes are real-life superheroes. We look at these supercool people and admire the types of things they can do with their bodies that ordinary people can't. They look great. They can do amazing things, and you want to look sort of the same and follow their example. Many athletes show incredible determination in their everyday lives. This serves as inspiration to young people or at least they can motivate you to finally join a gym and never miss workouts.

Task 3

Interviewer: Thank you for taking part in our survey. I really appreciate it.

Respondent: I'm glad to help! Are you doing it for a research project?

Interviewer: Yes, it's a part of our university course.

Respondent: I understand. Go ahead! What would you like to ask about?

Interviewer: First, I need to write down your age, if you don't mind.

Respondent: No, I don't. I'm forty.

Interviewer: Right. Forty. What's your occupation? Do you work?

Respondent: Yes, I'm a nurse. I work in a hospital.

Interviewer: It's a very important job and a difficult one.

Respondent: Yes, it's not easy but I like it. My father is a surgeon. A really good one. When I was at school, I often went to his hospital and I decided to be a nurse. It feels good to help people.

Interviewer: Right! And the next question is about your eating habits. What food do you usually prefer?

Respondent: Oh, I'm not very particular about food. I eat everything! The only thing I cannot do without is chocolate. I always have chocolate for dessert though there's a wide choice of different desserts in our café from fruit salads to all sorts of cakes and pies.

Interviewer: I see. You should have been born in Belgium where chocolate is very popular.

Respondent: But I was born in Australia and, to tell you the truth, I'm missing my native country. It's nature and people. I can't go there often, it's too far away!

Interviewer: I understand. Australian people usually enjoy all sorts of outdoor activities. Windsurfing is extremely popular, isn't it?

Respondent: Yes, it is. But I've never gone surfing. The best holiday activity for me is camping.

Interviewer: Is it?

Respondent: Yes, my colleagues and I often go camping. It's fun and a great recreational activity. I feel like a new person after our camping trips.

Interviewer: And what else do you do when you have free time? Do you enjoy cooking or assembling puzzles?

Respondent: No, I don't. As for my hobby, I'd say it's painting. I don't paint very often but I like it. I've just started to work with watercolours. The technique is new to me but it's amazing!

Interviewer: OK. Thank you! One more question…

1. How many lessons do you usually have?
2. What do you usually do after lessons?
3. How much time do you need to do your homework?
4. Who helps you to do your homework?
5. Do you use the Internet when you do your homework? What for?
6. What would you recommend to a student who wants to spend less time on his or her homework?

Вариант 12

Task 1

Text A

And finally, I would like to tell you about your exam on Monday. It's going to be a computer-based exam. You'll be using the computers in our computer room, so do not bring your own ones, you have to leave them on a reception desk anyway. You can keep your mobile phones on you, but remember that you mustn't use them for any purpose, if you do, your test will not be graded. Nor textbooks, or not textbooks, of course. All you should bring is your student card, a pen, and a bottle of water.

Text B

Hi dad! I've already arrived, but can see neither you nor mom. There are so many people at the arrivals. It's easy to lose each other, so I am waiting for you at the staircase which is in the arrival lounge to the right of the entrance to the terminal. I am wearing a brand-new blue coat, bought from a Parisian shopping center. I'm awfully hungry and suggest going to our favorite cafe, straight from the airport. This one in the city center, where we celebrated my birthday. See you.

Text C

A: Look! There are so many people in the square.

B: It's just a book fair but it's the first time we have ever had an event like this in our town, except for the folk music festival last May.

A: Oh, it was wonderful, remember? People were singing and dancing for two days. Do you know anything about this sphere?

B: I have heard that there is fiction, artbooks, business literature, and books for children. A few writers will be introducing their books. Ron Smith, an athlete, is going to present his book on marathons, he is taking part in.

A: Why not see it? Where can we buy the entrance ticket?

B: No need. It's free.

Text D.

Ann: Leo, can I ask you a favor?

Leo: Sure, what's that?

Ann: I have got a pen friend from Germany. We communicate in English, but I want to send her a hand-made birthday card in German.

Leo: Wow, I don't remember the last time I received a paper card. Probably never. What do you want me to do? Print the card?

Ann: No, my German is not just good enough for writing Birthday wishes. Could you help me with it?

Leo: Ok. Let's meet up in the design room after classes, it will take a few minutes to write the wishes.

Ann: Thanks!

Leo: Are you planning to send her just a card or a present too?

Ann: A special souvenir, I bought it long ago.

Task 2

Presenter: Good afternoon. Today we have asked five people to give us a short interview and share their opinions about ecological problems. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A. In my school grounds littering has become a real problem: papers, wrappers, cans and all sorts of rubbish were everywhere. Our head-teacher has reacted by stopping afterschool activities for all students. I don't think that it's right. I feel that students who have nothing to do with a problem should not suffer. Why should I be responsible for someone else's actions? Only those who leave rubbish on school grounds should be punished. Not every single student.

Speaker B. It's a fact that in my school most students don't know that littering on school grounds is harming the planet. I feel the school should explain to them that littering is very bad for the environment. There could be some reports and programs on the school radio station as well as articles on the school students' blog. If the students know what rubbish does to the planet, I'm sure they'll stop littering, they'll know how harmful it is for nature.

Speaker C. It all started last week. Our teacher explained to us: it's a new program to promote a healthy environment. It's called 'Litter-free lunches'. The idea is to develop a different attitude to lunch boxes. We should all start using reusable containers, such as plastic food containers and water bottles instead of paper cups. It is an effort to reduce the amount of littering in our school. We are wondering if it will work. It's also new or unusual to us. We'll have to get used to it.

Speaker D. People all over the world understand how much harm litter does the planet. However, in my town things are very different. The citizens don't even notice that they are littering. Everywhere I walk there is trash on the side of the road. In the streets there are cardboard boxes, used caps and plastic bags. I feel very sad that nobody is trying to do anything about it. I believe young people should join together and do something to save our town as everyone is in charge of our planet's future. I am sure we are able to do it.

Speaker E. People who litter streets, parks and playgrounds demonstrate their disrespect for other people. I believe they should be punished for that. And the punishment should be serious. For example, if someone throws plastic cups or biscuits wrappers or whatever on the ground, they should pay a fine for it. Alternatively, they should be made to do some cleaning. I'm sure that when this is done, the situation will improve.

Task 3

Interviewer: I'm glad you've found some time to talk to me. The survey won't take you long, I promise.

Respondent: Fine.

Interviewer: The first question is about your job, what do you do for a living?

Respondent: I'm a designer.

Interviewer: Designer. Sounds exciting! Do you use a computer for your work?

Respondent: Of course, I do, it is my, it's my essential tool.

Interviewer: Do you work online or offline? And how many hours do you spend online per week?

Respondent: Well, we work mainly online, because we usually work on projects as a team: designers, IT-specialists, marketologists altogether. It is difficult to say the exact number of hours, but I think generally it's thirty hours per week.

Interviewer: I see, approximately thirty hours, right. And do you play any sport to keep fit?

Respondent: Yes, it's absolutely necessary for me, an essential part of my daily routine. I like swimming but I can't do it, because there is no swimming pool nearby. So, I play badminton. My neighbour likes badminton too. So, we play almost every day, either in the park or in the sports center, if the weather is not ok.

Interviewer: Right, thank you. And a question about your origin, if you don't mind. Where were you born?

Respondent: In Greece, I still have lots of relatives there. But my parents and two brothers live in Britain. We all often go to Greece, for holidays, of course.

Interviewer: Greece is a land of art, legends and music. Do you like Greek country music, by the way?

Respondent: No, not really. To tell you the truth, I prefer classical music to anything else. Mozart is my favorite composer. When I'm working, the music is playing softly in the background. It boosts my creativity.

Interviewer: Yeah, lots of creative people like classical music. And do you have any pets at home? The question may sound a bit out of line, but…

Respondent: No, no, that's ok. I have got an unconventional pet.

Interviewer: Which means it is neither a cat nor a dog.

Respondent: Exactly, it's a rabbit, a small white rabbit, very fluffy and cute. It sleeps in its cage but when it's awake it takes walks all around the house

Interviewer: Amazing! One more question if you don't mind…

1. How old are you?
2. How much time do you spend on the Internet every day?
3. What do you use the Internet for?
4. What do you do in Information Technology or Computer Study lessons?
5. Why are computer skills useful for everyone?
6. What would you recommend to a person who spends too much time on the Internet?

Text A.

I'd like to present some really good news. You know that our company has set up a computer club, which is going to be free for anyone who wants to upgrade their computer skills. To make our work effective we hold classes for young people aged 12 to 20 at weekends. Retired people are very welcome from Monday to Friday in the mornings. After them there will be a group for small kids. Schoolchildren, as I've already said, come on Saturday and Sunday.

Text B.

Hi, Jack! It's Cathy. I'm just calling to say sorry. I didn't come to your birthday party yesterday because I had a very bad day. It all started in the morning. My dog Buddy got very sick. We took him to the hospital and he was operated then. I waited there till I could take him home. Now everything is fine, he's at home, lying on my leg while I'm trying to concentrate on my Maths homework. Anyway, I hope you had a great day. Sorry again and happy birthday for yesterday.

Text C.

Oliver: Ms. Smith, did you want to see me?

Ms Smith: Yes, Oliver. Thanks for coming. I just want to make sure you enjoy studying in our language school and that everything is fine. You don't have any relatives in this country as far as I know.

Oliver: No, I don't.

Ms Smith: Are you happy with the place where you're staying?

Oliver: Yes. At first, I wanted to stay with a host family but there was a vacant room in the hostel. My friend and I decided to have a look and we stayed there.

Ms Smith: Fine. Do you cook for yourself in the shared kitchen or do you eat out?

Oliver: We cook for ourselves. I can do it quite well. My mum taught me.

Ms Smith: Really?

Text D.

Frank: Hi, Jane! I didn't expect to see you here, at the photo exhibition. I didn't know you're interested in photography.

Jane: No, Frank, I'm not. But the exhibition is about the history of our town and I have to do a project on it.

Frank: I see. You collect the information for the project.

Jane: Exactly.

Frank: Right. Any plans for tonight?

Jane: I don’t know yet. It’s cold and rainy. Nasty weather.

Frank: My sister said it’s a sort of weather for knitting and drawing.

Jane: I hate both. What I like is making cakes, pies and biscuits.

Frank: Oh, cooking! It sounds more original than drawing and much tastier.

Task 2

Presenter: Good afternoon! Today we have asked five people to give us a short interview and share their opinions about reading. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A. I like reading, especially historical novels. That's why I know more than most of my classmates. Our teacher often asks me to give presentations to the whole class. I know it takes a long time to read a novel but it’s definitely worth it. It helps me to broaden my outlook and it’s easier for me to do my homework or perform better if we have a test at school. I think I get more information from novels than they give us in student books.

Speaker B. I wish I could read more as I know it can help me with my school education but I just can’t make myself do it. Many people find it interesting to read but not me. When I close a book, I forget all about it. So, it is not interesting for me to come back to it. I don’t enjoy the process of reading, that’s a fact. I wonder what I can do about it. My friends love reading and don’t understand me. So, I’ll probably have to do something about it.

Speaker C. Reading is important but it’s hard to find a gap in my schedule to read a book for pleasure. I’m always too busy having classes at school, going to the swimming pool, playing football with my friends, doing homework and so on. I have piles of books which I want to read but I don’t have the time to do it because you need at least an hour in the evening for a good book. It’s so hard to squeeze that much time in my packed schedule.

Speaker D. Reading is not simply my hobby. It's my passion. I don't know what can be more exciting than buying a new book or getting one in a library and enjoying the events that take place there. It's simply breathtaking. I know books aren't cheap but they are worth the money because nothing can give you more fun and pleasure than a good book. You can read about exciting adventures and mysterious events set in unforgettable places.

Speaker E. I don't know why so many people love reading. To begin with, books are rather expensive to buy and libraries don't always have the books you may want to read. What they have is outdated books, which nobody wants to read anymore. Some people may find it interesting to read, but in my opinion it's such a waste of time. Most books don't have anything educational or practical. You forget one as soon as you finish it.

Task 3

Interviewer: First of all, I' d like to thank you for taking part in our survey.

Respondent: Oh, it's ok. It's the third survey I've taken part in this month.

Interviewer: Really?

Respondent: Yes, I was interviewed by your colleagues from TV. They asked me about travelling and my favourite cities.

Interviewer: And what's your favourite city?

Respondent: Rome. It's my native city. I was born there but then my parents left Rome for New York. The second interview was about music and music styles like classical rock, pop, you know?

Interviewer: Yes, sure. And for my survey I have to ask you about your age, if you don't mind, of course.

Respondent: No, I don't. I'm thirty, I turned thirty last month and haven't got used to this number yet.

Interviewer: I see. As you start talking about music, what's your favourite style?

Respondent: It's not easy to choose, I like everything, but when I have a choice, I always choose classical jazz.

Interviewer: Jazz? It's my favourite, too. Is your job related to music? Are you a musician, a costume designer, a music band manager?

Respondent: You've hit it! A manager! But my job has nothing to do with music, unfortunately. I'm a manager and I work in a large business centre, which is not very exciting.

Interviewer: It's an important job and it may be stressful. You definitely need some relaxation after your working day. Do you do aerobics, go jogging or anything else?

Respondent: I used to do aerobics when I was at school. Now I prefer swimming to anything. There's a pool close to the office and it's very convenient.

Interviewer: Right. It's very good for the body, as far as I know. Do you do anything else to keep fit? Some sort of a diet?

Respondent: No, I don't stick to any diet though I try to avoid unhealthy food like chips, crisps and hamburgers.

Interviewer: Right.

Respondent: I like rice. I cook it with vegetables, fish and meat. In fact, rice is the basis of my daily menu. And even for dessert I often have rice pudding.

Interviewer: Well, to stay on this theme, the desserts are delicious food, I would like to ask you one more question.

1. How long have you been living in your city, town or village?
2. What is the place where you live famous for?
3. When was your city, town or village founded?
4. What season is the best for visiting your city, town or village and why?
5. What is your favorite place in your city, town or village? Why do you like it?
6. What place in your hometown would you recommend visiting?

Task1

Text A

Dear readers! On the anniversary of our library opening, we would like to ask you to write about what you like and what you, maybe, dislike in our library, what books were a discovery for you, what events like a documentary photo exhibition, meeting with authors were the most exciting? What exhibitions or presentations would you like to visit in our library in the future? Please, write all your ideas in a big library book. Your opinion is very important to us.

Text B. Hi, Max! Andrea's calling. I just have to tell you that I won't be able to join you for your camping trip this weekend. My aunt's family are coming and mum asked me to show them around the city. I'm going to be a sort of tourist guide for them. I feel a bit disappointed but on the other hand, our relatives are very nice and hospitable. When we visited them last time, they had a party for us and did everything to entertain us. Anyway, I want you to have a great trip. Call me later.

Text C.

Miss Reads: Hi, Phil! How are you today?

Phil: I'm fine, thanks.

Miss Reads: But you don't look fine. Is there a problem in the family? Is your grandmother well?

Phil: Yes, Miss Reeds, we're all well. It's my cat Ginger who's ill. He's neither eating, nor playing. And he looks very sad. It's worrying me.

Miss Reads: Yes, I think I understand.

Phil: I've never had any pets before. Ginger is a present from my granny.

Miss Reads: I see. I think you should take your cat to a vet clinic. I can recommend one. I always take my dog there.

Phil: Oh, thank you, Miss Reeds.

Miss Reads: Can an adult from your family help you to get to the clinic?

Text D.

Susan: Good evening, Mr. Brooks.

Mr. Brooks: Hi, Susan. How was your first day at the language school? Was it easy to find it?

Susan: Yes, I followed your directions. Took bus 22 and got off at the stop City Centre, that's it!

Mr. Brooks: Good.

Susan: The tutor said there used to be a university campus but it was too far from the centre. Students staying with host families had problems getting there. So, they moved the school.

Mr. Brooks: Which was clever of them. But the air is better in the suburbs, of course. In the city the traffic's too heavy.

Susan: Oh, the windows of our classroom were closed because of the noise from the traffic.

Task 2

Presenter: Good afternoon. Today we have asked five people to give us a short interview and share their opinions about jeans. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A. I love wearing jeans so much! I wear them every single day. What I like most about jeans is that you can wear them almost anywhere and with almost anything. Moreover, they're easy to wash. And you can put them in the washing machine and don't even need to iron them. You get neither hot nor cold in them. They suit any occasion. In fact, I don't know a better item of clothing. Jeans are just a universal item of clothing.

Speaker B. I think too many people these days wear jeans just everywhere, thinking it's the most practical garment. Still, there're a lot of occasions where jeans are just not good. Like going to school or to the cinema. Besides, if everybody wears jeans, it means that everybody looks the same, and it's just not interesting. I honestly think it's just so dull if you put on jeans when you can actually think of something more beautiful.

Speaker C. As far as I know, jeans were originally meant for working people and were considered simple clothes because they're easy to wash and very durable. That is why I don't understand why now people think you can wear them anywhere. Jeans are certainly good if you go to the countryside but they're inappropriate at the theatre or at school, anywhere where there's a strict dress code. So, you cannot just wear them on any occasion after all.

Speaker D. I have ten pairs of jeans and my parents laugh at me because I can wear them almost anywhere. They think that all jeans look the same but they couldn't be more wrong. Jeans come in any colour nowadays and they come in different styles too. There are skinny and baggy jeans, jeans with embroidery and even beautiful beads, blue, white, grey, and black jeans. I can go on and on. The list of jeans styles is really endless.

Speaker E. I wear jeans sometimes, not to school, of course. As I consider it bad style for some reason. Still, even if they allowed that, I wouldn't wear jeans to school or too often in general because I've read that jeans can damage our blood circulation and become a reason for some illnesses. It is especially true for tight jeans, which are considered high fashion now. I think it's a sufficient reason to avoid wearing jeans every day. Once a week is enough.

Task 3

Interviewer: Excuse me! Could you give me a few minutes of your time?

Respondent: Pardon?

Interviewer: We're doing a survey and interviewing people randomly in the street.

Respondent Oh, yeah! We also did that when we were in France on an exchange programme. It was a part of our course project.

Interviewer: You know then.

Respondent: Of course, I do. Go ahead, ask your questions.

Interviewer: You said you'd been to France. Do you speak French as a foreign language?

Respondent: Yes, I do. I speak it fluently, but still make some grammar mistakes.

Interviewer: Right, French is difficult. That's why I chose Spanish when I was at school. Are you still at school or have you finished it?

Respondent: It's my last year at school. I'm eighteen already.

Interviewer: Eighteen? Right. Anyway, as you're still at school, I'll ask you a question about your school life. What's your favourite subject? I believe you like Art and Computer Design.

Respondent: Neither. I love science. I've always loved it. And our science teacher is great.

Interviewer: Lucky you. Is this subject somehow related to your future career?

Respondent: I don't know yet because I haven't made my career choice yet.

Interviewer: Don't you know what you would like to do as a career?

Respondent: Well, I've always dreamt of being an actress and starring in films but…

Interviewer: Yes?

Respondent: I don't have a gift for the stage. To put it frankly, I feel terrified when I have to act or even speak in public, which means acting is not for me.

Interviewer: I do understand your feelings. I feel the same.

Respondent: Everyone says I've got a nice voice. That's true. And I love singing but only do it as a hobby.

Interviewer: Yeah, your hobby is singing. It's not a common one. Most people of your age say they like reading or watching films. And what about sports? I would be surprised if you did karate or yoga.

Respondent: No, I do aerobics. Not very exciting, but I don't have time for anything else at the moment.

Interviewer: To me aerobics sounds great. It is very useful for the body as far as I know. And it can be great fun if you choose the right instructor.

1. What is your favourite season?
2. Where do you usually spend your summer holidays?
3. What do you like to do during your winter holidays?
4. How often do you and your family travel?
5. What type of transport do you find the most convenient? Why?
6. What place in your country would you recommend a foreign tourist to visit? Why?

Вариант 15

Task 1

Text A. Today, we're holding a workshop and you'll learn some techniques on how to work with paper, fabric, dry flowers and other materials. Of course, you can take on everything you create today. Your craft could make a great gift for a friend. I'm often asked what hobby is the best. I have no answer. For me the best hobby is cooking and I often treat my friends with homemade cakes and lemonades, and one of my friends collects lottery tickets. Hobbies may be different.

Text B. Hi, Fred! It's me, Andrew. I'm taking a pack of sandwiches for us for tomorrow's excursion, so we are not going to be hungry on the bus even if we come back home really late. Ms. Carter says that we're going to eat in a café but anyway… Do you remember, by the way, where exactly the bus would be waiting for us tomorrow morning? Should we go to school first? Or do we need to go directly to the bus stop? Call or text me, will you? See you tomorrow!

Text C

Seller: Can I help you?

Ron: Yes, I need a present for my niece. She's turning 13 next Friday.

Seller: I see. Here are books for teenagers and souvenirs and I can also recommend board games.

Ron: Board games? Do you think teenagers play board games nowadays?

Seller: Definitely. Your niece and her friends will have a lot of fun playing them. It's a good way to keep kids away from their phones and tablets. And also have a look at this painting set. It has several colouring books.

Ron: No, no. A painting set is what her parents always buy her. She's got dozens. I'll take this board game. Does it really keep them away from tablets?

Text D

Sam: Hi, Emma! Where are you heading?

Emma: Hey, Sam! Sorry, I didn't notice you. To my music class. It starts in ten minutes.

Sam: I won't keep you long. You'll get to your violin class on time.

Emma: Fine, but I don't play the violin. I chose the drums though my mum was very much against it.

Sam: And I can understand why. Most girls play the piano, violin or sometimes the guitar. It's sort of a conventional joy.

Emma: Right!

Sam: But playing the drums is much cooler!

Emma: Absolutely! But I really need to go, Sam. Come to our rehearsal. I've been accepted into a band as a new drummer and we are rehearsing for the Christmas show.

Task 2

Presenter: Good afternoon. Today we have asked five people to give us a short interview and share their opinions about photography and taking photos. Now we would like to present their opinions to you.

Speaker A. A new photo exhibition starts at our school on Monday and will last till the end of the month. It's called 'Life on Campus', which means that any photos that show our school life are welcome. And I encourage my students to take part in it. I think it’s a great opportunity for them to remember and share some funny and memorable moments of their school life. They are welcome to display portraits, classroom scenes, pictures from our off-campus trips and out of class activities and what not.

Speaker B. If you’re not a professional photographer, I don’t think you should go for an expensive camera. I know there are several brands you can buy cheap and they will take very good pictures. Don't look for lots of functions. For beginners, most of those features are not important. The main thing is, it should be easy to use, maybe have a nice design and be rather light to carry. I guess these things are important for a beginner photographer. Have a look and decide what is best for you.

Speaker C. Well, I’m not a professional photographer, but I love taking pictures. Actually, I don’t like interior scenes, I prefer nature and especially the streets. Practicing street photography has helped me change my perspective. I think I’ve become more observant. I walk a lot and walk to places I have never been to. I can see beauty in many things I never noticed before. You can sense a story in everything you find out. This is what I like about it.

Speaker D. It’s not easy to become a good photographer. The quickest way to get some basic knowledge is to take a short course for young photographers. This will give you a good idea of how to use your camera. What could be better than listening to photography experts? You’ll learn more in an hour than from reading any special books. The next step will be to go out with a camera and take pictures, just as many pictures as possible. At least, that's the way I did it.

Speaker E. Moments happen all the time and they can happen fast. As I see it, photography freezes these moments so we can take the time to enjoy them. Being a photographer, I have the ability to show myself and share my ideas through images. When someone looks at one of my photos, they are able to see something exactly the way I saw it. Photography can convey ideas in a very artistic, visual and creative way. My way.

Task 3

Interviewer: Excuse me, can I ask you a few questions? We are doing a survey.

Respondent: Yes, you can. My name's Alice and I'm from...

Interviewer: No, Alice, I don't need your name. The survey is supposed to be anonymous.

Respondent: OK.

Interviewer: But I need to write down your age if you don't mind.

Respondent: No, I don't. I'm thirteen.

Interviewer: Fine. Thirteen. You are on your bike and your friends are too. Does this mean you do cycling as a sport?

Respondent: Yes. We train a lot and we often take part in cycling races.

Interviewer: It's not easy, I understand.

Respondent: No, it isn't. But sport is sport. My sister plays tennis and that's also very demanding.

Interviewer: Right. Do you stick to any diet? I think all athletes should eat eggs, meat and milk products. Is this correct?

Respondent: Not exactly. The coach gives us some advice, of course, on what to eat but I usually eat whatever I like.

Interviewer: And your favourite food is …?

Respondent: Hamburgers. I know that it's not ideal food for me but I can't help it. Hamburgers are what I really like.

Interviewer: OK. And you go to the local school, right? Are you a native of this town? I mean were you born here?

Respondent: No. I was born in France, but then my parents moved to Britain. It was because of my father's job. He is a scientist. A biologist, to be exact.

Interviewer: Are you missing France?

Respondent: No. Not at all. I was very small when we left and I don't remember it much. I like it here. I've got lots of friends.

Interviewer: That's fine. What do you want to be in the future? Have you thought about a career yet?

Respondent: Yes. My dream is to be a coach. I love sports and I love being with people. My parents want me to study biology, but I think a career as a coach is ideal for me.

Interviewer: Very reasonable. And you've got some pets, haven't you?

Respondent: Well, I would like to have a dog, of course, but my parents won't let me. All they agreed on was a goldfish.

Interviewer: Where does your goldfish live?

Respondent: In the aquarium on my writing desk. I enjoy watching it. And I feed it every morning.

Interviewer: I see. One more question if you don't mind...

1. What colour of clothes do you prefer wearing?
2. What clothes do you usually wear?
3. How often do you go shopping for clothes?
4. Who do you usually go shopping with?
5. Do you have to wear a school uniform? If so, what is it like?
6. Does a career as a fashion designer attract you or not? Why?
